Sea Battle Occurs Near South America

BRITISH, NAZI VESSELS FIGHT AT LONG RANGE

London Hears German Q-Boat Flees From Encounter Off Montevideo.

IN NEUTRAL ZONE

Heavily Armed Raider Posed as Merchant Ship, Says English Admiralty.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — A fierce, long-range encounter between a German "Q-boat"—disguised raider—and the British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle in which the British ship suffered "slight damage" and the German was said to have fled was reported today by the admiralty.

It was learned authoritatively the battle occurred in the south

BUENOS AIRES —(AP)— Information reaching informed quarters here on the south Atlantic battle between an armed British merchant cruiser and a German raider indicated today that the engagement occurred within or near the American neutrality zone.

Atlantic approximately 700 miles northeast of Montevideo, Uruguay, where three British cruisers drove the Germon pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee to self-destruction last December.

(This would be well within the American neutrality zone.)

The admiralty said only that the battle took place "somewhere in the south Atlantic." It acknowledged some casualties aboard the Carnarvon Castle, 22,122 tons.

It left open the question of damage to the opponent—"a fast and heavily armed German raider disguised as a merchantship."

"It is not yet known what damage was inflicted on the enemy raider and she was last reported to be steaming north at high speed away from the scene of action," the communique said.

(The British themselves developed the Q-boat in the World war where the name was given to mystery warships masked as innocent tramp steamers. They were one of Britain's great wea-

SAFE LOOTED

Burglars Enter Madison High School By Prying Window.

Authorities today were investigating a burglary last night at Madison high school where the door of a safe in the superintendent's office was pried open and a steel box containing about $5 in change and a $2.50 check was stolen.

Supt. Olan LaRue said the burglars entered the building by prying open a window in a lower floor room and then forcing the door to his office. The safe was a small one, made of comparatively light material.

The building apparently was entered late last night after a school play practice session in the auditorium, Supt. LaRue said.

The burglary was discovered shortly before 8 a. m. today by William Thomas, a custodian, who investigated when he saw the door to the superintendent's office was standing open.

Merchants Place 'O. K.' Stamp on Parking Meters at End of Two Weeks of Operation In Downtown Areas

Mansfield's new parking meters have won tremendous approval in the first two weeks that they have been in operation, both from individuals and from merchants, according to a cross-section of opinions reflected in a poll made by The News-Journal.

Before the meters were installed, Mansfield citizens were probably 20 per cent in favor of them and 80 per cent opposed. These figures have been reversed since the installation of the meters, a situation that has been duplicated in practically every town using meters.

News-Journal reporters asked people on the streets how they liked the meters and heard no complaints at all. They contacted 16 merchants on the principal down town streets and 13 of them were 100 per cent for the meters and report that they actually benefitted business and that all of their customers are in favor of them.

A number of persons daily express a desire for more meters, to be extended into other parts of the city. The penny time limit is particularly popular.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today that the meters had done more to solve the traffic problem in the shopping district than any thing the city had ever done.

"The meter system has done away with double parking almost 100 per cent," he said, "and everyone can find a parking space in the shopping area anytime they come down town while the meters are in effect. We've heard a few complaints, naturally, but I think that 80 per cent or more of the people are in favor of them, and most of these people are very enthusiastic about them."

Here is what Mansfield merchants in the down town district have to say about the meters:

C. F. Routzahn, R. B. Maxwell company, North Main street—"I think the parking meters are swell. I haven't heard any complaints on them from customers and I've talked to a lot

Gen. Badoglio Resigns From High Command

Italian Leadership Changed as Enemy Drives Fascists Northward to Port Palermo; No Reason Given for Action.

BULLETIN

BITOLJ, Yugoslavia — (AP) — Dispatches reaching the Yugoslav border said Greek troops occupied Argirocastro, Albania, about noon today after bloody fighting and took more than 1,000 prisoners.

(By United Press)

ATHENS, Greece—Greek troops captured Porto Edda, third largest Albanian port, recently modernized by Italy and renamed for Countess Edda Ciano, Benito Mussolini's daughter, it was announced officially today.

"The Greek advance continues as the Italians pour northward from Porto Edda, choking the road along the coast toward Port Palermo," a communique said.

Port Palermo is 20 miles north of Porto Edda on the old coast road, which dwindles off to a mule path before it reaches Valona, second largest Albanian port, 70 miles north.

The Greeks had stood before Porto Edda more than 24 hours waiting for the Italians to evacuate under shell fire, before they entered and occupied the city this morning. The Italians threw up a rear guard of tanks and armored cars to hold the Greeks off until their main force could retreat north, and the Greek commanders were said to have held their men back, rather than let them rush headlong into the city, as the Greek Evzone troops particularly wanted to do, and risk a needless loss of life.

Earlier in the campaign, Porto Edda had been a base for the landing of Italian troops and supplies for the south front. It formerly was called Santa Quaranti. After they conquered Albania, the Italians renamed it for their countess, the wife of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The Greeks took it from the south, sweeping up the coast from the Konispolis region as the Italians retreated ahead of them, burning the supplies they could not carry along.

A United Press correspondent at the Porto Edda front, describing the Greeks' arrival at the outskirts of the port, said the Italians had made a last stand at a bridgehead on the Butrino river marshes near Ohtsuka, three miles below Porto Edda. The Italians believed the swamps were impassable and guarded their bridgehead lightly. Greek Evzones set out at night, loaded their light guns onto rafts, waded beside them through waist-deep slush, and came upon the Italians by surprise. The correspondent said the Evzones assailed the Italians with bayonets, drove them back onto Porto Edda, then charged on to take a high place overlooking the city, where they set up guns and shelled it mercilessly.

Several fires were reported burning in the city before the Greeks entered.

On the north and central fronts, Greek troops were reported smashing through ice and snow in the direction of Elbasan, in the exact center of Albania, only 10 miles from the capital, Tirana.

An Italian destroyer, jammed with troops and supplies, was heavily bombed in the harbor and many troops were believed to have been killed.

(The dispatch did not state whether the destroyer was trying to land the troops but the reference to the Italians retreating from Porto Edda 25 miles north to Khiamara indicated that it was an evacuation, under somewhat similar circumstances but on a smaller scale to the British evacuation of Dunkirk.)

Three fires were reported raging in Porto Edda, presumably set by Italians to destroy supplies they could not take with them.

In the north, according to a government spokesman here, the Air Liner Stewardess Dies In Chicago Hospital of Injuries.

CHICAGO—Miss Florence Little, 22, stewardess of the United Air Lines transport plane which crashed near the Chicago airport Wednesday evening, died today at Holy Cross hospital.

Death of the young air hostess raised to nine the number of persons injured fatally in the accident, cause of which remained undetermined.

Miss Little suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries, and had hovered near death for many hour. She failed to rally despite three blood transfusions.

Seven passengers remained under treatment at Holy Cross hospital today. One, Owen M. Frederick, 52, U. S. army engineer of Cleveland, O., was reported in critical condition. Another passenger, Paul Ryan, 60, president of the National Refining company, Cleveland, was said to have rallied following a blood transfusion. His condition earlier had been considered grave.

COLUMBUS — (NS) — The hundreds of workers in the state office building either must arise in time to eat their breakfast before reporting for work or go without it, Gov. John W. Bricker decreed today.

FLU EPIDEMIC HITS SOLDIERS ON WEST COAST

Medical Officers Report No Serious Illness From Mild Disease.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—Thousands of the nation's soldiers, mobilized in training camps along the Pacific coast, are ill with influenza, it was reported today.

At Camp Murray, Wash., where 12,000 men of the 41st National Guard division are mobilized, 1,400 men were hospitalized in wood-floored tents and it was estimated by officers that 5,000 others have suffered some symptoms of the mild form of influenza which swept the west.

Army officers and physicians were reluctant to reveal exact figures on the numbers stricken in other training centers scattered through California and Washington.

At the San Francisco presidio it was said that there were "several hundred cases" but at the Monterey presidio, headquarters for the Fort Ord encampments where most of the western troops are based, officials said the influenza outbreak was "trivial."

Lieut.-Col. H. L. Krafft, surgeon at Monterey, said "the situation is not serious among the army personnel and troops living in the open air have a minimum of contagion."

WON'T BE COLD

Weather Tomorrow Will Keep Mercury on Trend Upward.

As Ohio weather forecasters promised warmer temperatures for tonight and tomorrow, Mansfielders were already experiencing today a let-up in the cold snap which has had residents snuggling into their coat collars all week.

At noon today the temperature hovered around the 32-degree mark, after readings as low as 10 degrees had been recorded in Mansfield early this morning. In some sections of the state the mercury stood at a comparative high of 26 in the early hours of the day.

Although the state highway department reported Ohio roads icy in spots, roads in the Richland county area were in "fairly good" condition today. Highways around Jefferson, Warren, Youngstown, Canton, Akron, and Ravenna were covered with a thin coat of ice, the highway department said.

Lucas Has 'First Night' for Neighbor Bromfield's Play

(Pictures on Page 6)

An audience of nearly 800 filled the village high school auditorium as much with their laughter at the hilarious situations in the play as with their presence.

Lucas staged a sort of "first night" of its own. There were special police to direct traffic and handle parking around the school building. And holders of reserved seats arrived only a few minutes before curtain time while the un-reserved sections of the auditorium were filled more than an hour before the play began. At least a third of the spectators were from Mansfield.

A definite ovation was accorded Mrs. Lester Bauer, resident of a nearby farm, who had one of the leading roles, on her first entrance. There were plenty of "hands" too, for other members of the cast who played on a crowded stage and made their entrances from wings jammed with properties.

As with Mansfield audiences who saw the two previous performances of the play on Tuesday and Wednesday at John Simpson junior high auditorium there was a great deal of enthusiasm for the performance of "Whiskers," wire-

GREENWICH HIT

Nazi Raiders Take Time Out To Stop British Clocks.

LONDON (NS)—Two of the most famous landmarks in British Isles, the Greenwich observatory and Holyrood palace in Edinburg, suffered damage in recent German air raids, it was officially revealed today.

Greenwich, standard of timekeeping throughout the world, was hit by high explosives and incendiary bombs. The almost priceless revolving globe and portions of the telescope room were damaged.

At Holyrood, a bomb dropped on the lawn near the ruined Abbey chapel, disinterring bones from the graves of ancient Scottish kings and queens.

Holyrood dates back to the twelfth century. Mary Queen of Scots once lived there.

MANSFIELD TO HAVE UNIT IN 'HOME GUARD'

City To Be One of 73 In Ohio Where Civilians Will Form Emergency Outfit.

Mansfield is one of the 73 communities in Ohio where a company of civilians will be enlisted to form an Ohio "Home Guard" of 4,000 men to replace the national guard which is now in federal service at Fort Shelby, Miss.

First volunteers, mostly war veterans and former national guardsmen, talked over such plans with Adj. Gen. Gilson D. Light at Columbus yesterday and then set out to interest others in joining the new units expected to begin functioning next month.

R. B. Gardner, chairman of the national defense committee of the American Legion in Ohio and liaison officer between the Legion and the Fifth corps army area, said the plans call for organization of the guard units only in communities where state-owned armories are located.

He said he had no definite information on organization of the Mansfield unit but that it would probably be organized after Gen. Light returns from Washington where he is expected to confer with army officers on the new program.

As tentatively planned, the state guard organization would include four infantry regiments, a company of medical troops, a quartermaster company, and a headquarters company which would include a signal unit.

The state legislature in January will be asked to appropriate funds for maintenance and legalize the formation of the force, Light said. Exact size of the appropriation to be requested was not disclosed but Light indicated it would be around $1,000,000 for the next two years.

The general said the U. S. army would furnish rifles and bayonets but the rest of the equipment—trousers, a zipper jacket, shoes, sox, hat and other apparel would have to be supplied by the state.

He reminded the men that the guard might be called out in cases of emergency such as floods and riots and strikes, and emphasized that enlistment would not exempt anyone from federal army duty.

'Can Matinees' to Get Under Way at Movie Tomorrow

The first "can matinee" to help fill Christmas baskets will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Ohio theater. Admission can be gained only by presenting a can of vegetables, fruit or jelly to the doorman.

The canned food will be used in baskets given out the day before Christmas to needy families who have not been adopted through the Give A Christmas project.

There will be two matinees next Saturday, at the Ritz and Majestic, while on Dec. 21 the Park theater will give a can matinee for the benefit of the Volunteers of America.

The program at the Ohio tomorrow will feature the "Dead End Kids on Dress Parade", John Payne in "Royal Rodeo" a color cartoon, "Gander at Mother Goose," a second color cartoon, "Gallegher Gals" and a news reel. The doors will open at 9:30 a. m.

WAVES: German Bombers Hit At South English Coast Town

(By Associated Press)

A SOUTH COAST TOWN in England—Waves of German planes sneaking in from the sea showered heavy demolition and fire bombs on this town last night in a slashing, three-hour raid which killed a number of people and left a large number homeless.

(Both the German high command and informed German sources identified the town as Portsmouth, Britain's great naval base and frequent object of Nazi raiders.)

The full extent of casualties was not determined immediately, as workers still were digging into the debris of wrecked homes for possible victims when dawn came. Officials said the number, however, was "fewer than might be expected considering the severity of the attack."

The raid was declared to have been concentrated on the civilian population.

A tremendous anti-aircraft barrage kept the bombers at great height, but the first waves dropped flares which guided the subsequent formations to their target.

One bomb fell just outside a movie theater and 50 of the 200 persons inside were trapped in a balcony of collapsing walls, but

AID: Argentina Loan Made To Help British Get Food

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The United States, furthering its aid-for-Britain program, arranged the $100,000,000 loan to Argentina with the distinct understanding that Argentina extend England $160,000,000 in credit to buy badly needed foodstuffs, a high administration official disclosed today.

The Argentina loan [illegible] full approval of President Roosevelt before it left the [illegible] was revealed. Mr. Roosevelt [illegible] was aware of the negotiations between Argentina and British for credits for England.

The United States-to-Argentina-to-England maneuver is the best credit arrangement that England could get at the present time, as it sent its undersecretary of the treasury, Sir Frederick Phillips, to this country for a conference with Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau.

President Roosevelt's action in approving the Argentine loan, while that country helps Britain is in line with the present administration policy against granting direct loans or amending the Johnson or Neutrality acts to permit such loans.

Administration officials also regard the Argentina as a "gilt-edge" investment, and it furthers the United States announced good-neighbor policy of helping countries to the south.

The administration is against

Let's Make Christmas a Merry One for 100 Deserving Families

WANTED, One hundred persons or groups to adopt families for Christmas, to share their good fortune with others less fortunate than themselves.

There are at least that many families in Mansfield that are worthy and needy, many of them the victims of ill health. Some of them have small incomes and are not on relief, but all of them will be without a Christmas celebration of any kind unless some one more fortunate provides it for them.

A community wide Give-A-Christmas project sponsored by The News-Journal, the Mansfield Service League and the Junior Association of Commerce was announced yesterday and met with enthusiastic response.

The Service League and the Mansfield Community Fund will serve as the clearing house for names of families and individuals, groups and church classes who plan to adopt families for Christmas are urged to file the names of the families through either the Fund or the League in order to avoid duplication. Telephone numbers for these two are Canal 1748 for the Service League and Canal 3599 for the Community Fund.

A list of families will be issued daily in the News-Journal and any of these may be adopted by calling Mrs. R. R. Bliss, president of the Service League. Those families not adopted and names will be given out to those persons who adopt them. Seven families were listed yesterday and five more are added today.

Cosmetic Gifts For Young Girls

By MME. QUE VIVE.

Santa Claus is coming. Maybe you are taking time by the cowlick, doing your shopping now. If you want to make little daughter happy, why not provide her with the right kind of beautifying helps? She will feel elegant and grown up. She won't be dipping into your precious supplies, which is a bad practice; every sister should have her own.

Don't worry about the child developing a feeling of vanity. She will develop self respect, feel that she has a place among her friends, looks as well as the next one. Youth puts great stress on appearance; good appearance creates confidence, frequently overcomes shyness and self-consciousness. So much for that.

For the good of the complexion, daughter will need a cold cream to battle the havoc done by harsh winds. A high-grade soap is a necessity. She will, of course, want powder, since a shining nose is just as hateful at 16 as at 30. The selection of a lipstick of natural tint will keep her from flaunting some horrible shade which she selects because Nancy or Joan uses it. No rouge. Put your foot down there. Rouge has seen its best days anyway; been overdone. A protective lotion for the hands is essential.

Get her a new comb and brush. You will find excellent brushes that come in transparent boxes, are kept free of dust. With dainty toilet articles there is greater incentive to keep the curly looks well groomed. See that comb and brush are washed before each shampoo; that's important.

She may like to have a small purse comb. Flowing tresses need attention now and then. Have to be put in form at the party and it isn't proper to use toilet articles that belong to one's hostess. All manner of cute little pocket combs can be found.

Use Oven For Several Dishes

By BETSY NEWMAN

A certain daughter likes to tell how coming home tired and hungry one day, she found her mother making cookies. The table was set but no warm food in sight. "Oh, dear," she sighed to herself, "have I got to wait until the cookies are done before I eat?"

Having prepared one sheet of cookies for the oven, mother opened the oven door and began taking out a whole meal ready to serve. The first batch of cookies were baked while the family enjoyed the hot meal. I'm giving you an oven stew, and you can also bake a pie while the stew is cooking, and, with a prepared salad, your meal also will come out of the oven ready to serve.

Today's Menu.

MANSFIELD HAS PLACE IN OHIO BUSINESS BOOM

Experiences Skilled Labor Shortage as Industry Shows Pick Up.

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of articles on an Associated Press cross-section survey as to how the current business upswing and national defense orders has affected Ohio business and labor.)

By JOHN H. COLBURN.

Mansfield along with other industrial centers in Ohio is experiencing an employment boom and the need for reliable. skilled workmen is crucial.

Employment generally is running 10 to 15 per cent ahead of 1939 and business, swamped with government and private orders, is seeking skilled machinists and mechanics.

Industrial plants and the state and federal governments, cognizant of this labor shortage throughout the state, have established training schools for men and high school boys and by spring they'll be turning out a steady supply of workers skilled in handling machinery.

The boom is part of the general Ohio business upsweep which has been given new impetus since July 1 by $206,972,644 in government contracts. The prosperous condition also has engendered record residential and industrial construction activity.

While her aircraft industries in Columbus and Cincinnati promised to add further to the skilled labor problem, Columbus reported a surplus of "white collar" workers.

Akron met a skilled labor shortage temporarily by instituting a search for what it called a "lost legion" of skilled machinists—men who had drifted into other lines under the pressure of the depression, advancing years and other reasons.

Two hundred qualified men reported and they were rapidly placed in their old line of work.

East Liverpool, which calls itself the pottery center of the world, has benefitted by the war's crippling of foreign imports. It has experienced a shortage of skilled potters and plant foremen even made rounds of cafes looking for them.

Ohio's important steel industry, flourishing because of government contracts and industrial plant building, "spread" employment to aid more workers and eliminate overtime pay and put on full time men who had been working only part-time.

One of the big employment jumps this year was reported at Hamilton, where the increase was estimated at "at least" 50 per cent.

Plenty of common labor was available there, but industries were anxious to get high school graduates. Employment agencies had orders to supply 100 as fast as they became available.

Cleveland's employment was up 15,000 from July 1, when defense work got underway. Columbus and Cincinnati were preparing to put at least 12,000 men each to work in their new airplane industries.

The American Ship-Building company of Lorain, which is building three submarine net layers for the government, fears a shortage of skilled ship workers.

Lorain's employment has increased 15 per cent. Marion's 171 per cent. Toledo's 15 per cent. Warren's 10 per cent, while Van Wert's—typical of the trend in agricultural areas—was up 12 per cent.

Factory employment in Cincinnati has risen for 17 consecutive months and work is yet to be started on several major projects.

The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation has arranged to combat the migratory labor problem resulting from the state's business boom by soliciting employers to list job openings through the bureau.

COLUMBIA, S. C. —(UP)—When Clemson defeated the University of South Carolina on a sunny afternoon here, it was the 38th time the two teams had played with no threat of rain. It hasn't rained on a Clemson-U. S. C. tilt since 1896.

PRICE TRENDS INDEFINITE IN MARKET TODAY

Scattered Leaders Manage To Edge Forward In Tradings; Dealings Sluggish.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Indefinite price trends persisted in today's stock market.

While scattered leaders managed to edge forward in early dealings, a wide assortment held at yesterday's final levels or showed minor declines near the second hour. Dealings reverted to sluggishness after a fairly active opening.

Moderate support was accorded Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Goodyear, Boeing, North American, J. C. Penney, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, American Smelting and International Nickel.

On the offside occasionally were U. S. Rubber, Western Union, Montgomery Ward, American Can, Allied Chemical, Great Northern Union Carbide and U. S. Gypsum.

A constructive market indicator was seen in the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing further improvement in retail spending throughout the country. Sales volumes for this were estimated at 7 to 10 per cent larger than a year ago.

A pleasing note was sounded by the federal reserve board which said a pickup in Christmas shopping was chiefly responsible for a drop of $110,000,000 in the quantity of idle funds in the nation's banks during the week ended Wednesday. In the same period, and apparently for the same reason, money in circulation expanded $104,000,000 .

pital said, appeared to be making progress. These were Theodore F. Paulsen, 40, department store executive of Wilmette, Ill.; Leo Wolins, 37, Chicago contractor; Richard Pettite, 26, attorney of Bostonia, Cal.; George Haig, 45, of Dayton, O., an advertising firm executive, and Rolliston G Woodbury, 41, vice president of the Textile Banking company, New York City.

Federal investigation of the mishap, which occurred as the giant airliner was coming in to the airport, may require more than a week, it was stated today by Frank Caldwell, chief investigator of the department of safety, civil aeronautics authority.

Caldwell said his preliminary inquiry had resulted in no definite conclusions regarding possible cause of the crash.

CHAPTER XV

Glory decided it would be better not to tell Allan that she knew Mona was back in town. She didn't want anything to spoil their trip to San Francisco. But Van Limingham's words still ringing in her ears made her uneasy. Was it true that Mona's hold on Allan was strong enough to get him back even after he was engaged to her? Didn't Mona Greer have any more pride than to run after a man?

Tillie was packing Glory's bags. "You-all going to take any evening dresses, Miss Glory?"

Glory selected a new black silk jersey, sure that Allan would like its bizarre lines.

"Come on, baby," Helen called from her room. "We're to meet Allan at Glendale in twenty minutes."

Glory gathered up her purse and gloves, vowing to put all thoughts of Mona Greer from her mind. She had promised not to doubt him again. She and Allan were engaged. Nothing could come between them now and just because Mona had returned from Mexico was no reason for becoming suspicious.

Her resolution was not difficult to keep. Allan had never been more considerate or charming than he was that day in San Francisco. If he thought of Helen as extra baggage he gave no sign of it but was pleasant and courteous, and in return Helen stayed out of their way as much as possible.

"Don't bother about me," she told them the morning of their arrival. "I have an old friend here I want to be with as much of the time as possible."

So they were free for the day. Allan was making his appearance at the evening performance only.

"Let's have lunch in Chinatown," Allan suggested and on Grant avenue he stopped at a florist's to get her two magnificent orchids.

"They're beautiful," Glory said, thrilled, pinning them on her suit.

Allan was gazing at their reflection in the mirrored wall of the shop. "We're a swell looking couple," he observed.

Glory laughed. His conceit amused her. But she saw people staring at them as they walked towards Chinatown. The handsome man with the beautiful girl at his side were a striking pair and one that was becoming increasingly familiar to Hollywood. Of course Allan was already well known but Glory's picture had been appearing with him now for weeks. They were shown dancing together, at premieres, restaurants, tennis matches. A half-column article about Allan had heralded his arrival in San Francisco in which he was again referred to as "the heartthrob of a million women." He had carefully cut it out and placed it in his overcoat pocket.

"The trouble with Allan is he believes his own publicity," Helen said scornfully.

But Glory could understand how much these things meant to him. She did not resent the intensity of his love for his career. He had told her many times that it meant more to him than anything else in the world.

With her arm tucked through his they walked through the streets of Chinatown. Glory was exhilarated by the fresh sea air and interested in the oriental wares displayed in the shop windows. Exquisitely made pajamas and robes, jade cigarette boxes, brass trays and white fur slippers.

She was delighted when Allan insisted upon buying her a white brocaded silk robe.

"Try it on," he told her while the shopkeeper stood by watching with inscrutible eyes.

But even in Chinatown the heartthrob of a million women was well known. While Glory admired herself in the robe, which was heavily embroidered in gold, Allan was smilingly signing the autograph book of two giggling Chinese schoolgirls.

The robe was ordered delivered to their hotel, then Allan selected a jade cigaret holder for himself. His taste was perfect. He appreciated beauty in any form. Glory could well imagine what he must have suffered in the days when he was poverty-stricken, when he was forced to live without the luxury which had become a necessity to him.

At five they returned to the hotel for tea. It was Saturday and there was dancing.

Allan held her tenderly in his arms. "Having fun, sweet?"

"It's wonderful," she told him. Life was always exciting with Allan. It was so thrilling to be the center of admiring and curious glances. Glory could see the envy in the other girls' eyes. And why not? To think that she was Allan Rhodes' choice! With all the women in Hollywood to chose from, Allan had selected her!

"My last appearance at the theater is at ten-thirty," Allan explained. "After that we'll dance. I'll take you to every night club in San Francisco worth seeing."

Glory and Helen had dinner in their room and at ten o'clock Glory was dressing in the new black jersey. Its clinging sophisticated lines were exquisitely flattering, and with it she wore an elaborate gold necklace. But at eleven there had been no word from Allan.

"What do you suppose has happened to him?" she asked Helen, who had gone to bed.

"Why don't you call up the desk and ask if he's left a message?"

Glory picked up the receiver.

"Has Mr. Rhodes come in yet?" she inquired.

"Yes, Miss Stevens he was here just a few minutes ago taking a long distance call."

"Long distance?" Glory repeated.

"He had a call from Hollywood," the desk clerk explained. "I gave him the message when he came in."

"I see," Glory said. "Thank you very much."

Helen looked up from the magazine she was reading.

"What now?"

"I wish I knew," Glory admitted. "Allan has had a long distance call from Hollywood."

"Probably the studio," Helen said, yawning.

But ten minutes later the phone rang. Allan said he was calling from a well-known night club. "Climb into a taxi and come on over," he suggested.

His voice had sounded gay over the telephone and when Glory joined him she saw that he had been drinking.

"I met some newspaper boys," Allan confessed, "and we poured a few. I'm terribly sorry to have kept you waiting."

All her fears faded as he continued, "The Studio called. They want me to go back to Hollywood tomorrow."

So it had been the studio after all!

"But you and Helen may as well stay," Allan went on.

"No," Glory told him. "It wouldn't be any fun without you."

"You're sweet!" Allan said, pressing her hand. "Anyway, we'll have fun tonight, darling! Let's forget about everything."

Never had they been so gay. They went from one night club and hotel to another and in the small hours of the morning were having toast and coffee in a small all-night restaurant. In the taxi on their way back to the hotel, Allan put his arms around her.

"I've never loved any one so much in my life," he said simply.

"Darling," Glory cried, "Why can't we be married? Why do we have to wait?"

"Just as soon as I get going on this new picture we'll set the date," he promised. "It may not be longer than two weeks."

"Oh, Allan!" Glory breathed rapturously.

It didn't seem possible that any girl in the world could be so happy! She wanted to tell Helen but Allan had insisted that they keep their wedding plans a secret until the last minute.

"A swell vacation!" Helen grumbled as they took their seats in the seven o'clock plane. "One day, and here we are going back again."

It was the first time Glory had flown and she was thrilled by the experience, but then everything seemed thrilling when Allan was with her. And the secret of their approaching marriage made them seem closer than ever.

At the airport they separated. Allan said he must go directly to the studio. So Helen and Glory took another taxi to their apartment. Tillie was not there. No one knew of their unexpected return so that when the telephone rang they were surprised.

"Is that you Glory?" Scottie Weston's voice inquired.

"Yes! How did you know we were home?"

"I called the hotel in San Francisco. They said you had taken a plane this morning .... The studio has moved up the production of your new picture. You're to start work tomorrow."

"But I've had only two days vacation," Glory protested.

"So what? This is the picture business!" Scottie reminded her. "By the way .... I suppose you've seen the morning papers?"

Glory confessed that she had not.

"Mona Greer has announced her engagement!" Scottie said dryly .... to Allan Rhodes!"

Paper scrip was issued during the 1858's at Tubac, Ariz., now a ghost town, because the many Mexicans could not read. Denominations were indicated by pictures. A bill bearing a picture of a pig was worth 12½ cents, a calf 25 cents, a rooster 50 cents, a horse $1 and a bull $5.

CANDOR SAVES LONG SENTENCE

Defendant Doesn't Believe 22 Arrests Rate as 'Real Trouble.'

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Carl (Babe) Spikes, colored was hailed into Federal court at St. Louis charged with possession of bootleg whisky.

When Judge John C. Collet asked him if he wanted a lawyer, the defendant refused, explaining, "you don't need a lawyer when you're going to tell the truth." He then pleaded guilty.

"Have you had any trouble with the police?" the judge asked.

When Spikes answered that he had not, Judge Collet pointed to Babe's record of 28 arrests in 13 years.

"Oh," replied Spikes, "I thought you meant real trouble."

How about this two-year sentence on a narcotics charge in 1922?" the judge inquired.

"That was before I knew better," Spikes answered.

"You have some redeeming features, Babe," the judge smiled. "Your candor and bluntness. I'm only going to give you four months in jail.

Babe figures that honesty is the best policy.

PUT ON PAROLE

Youth Ordered To Stay Away From Young Girl.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson yesterday paroled a 17-year-old Mansfield youth to his mother and ordered him to stay away from the 13-year-old girl he was accused of beating.

The youth, taken into custody by police, pleaded guilty to an assault and battery charge in county juvenile court.

He admitted striking the girl while they were on their way to her home Sunday night. The charge was filed by the girl's father.

The boy was in juvenile court last April on a charge of illegal train riding and was warned and sent home at that time.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1940.

It is now estimated that it cost only $7,000 to discover America—but the upkeep has been tremendous.

And, as might have been anticipated, those toeless shoes are not proving so practical for slushy weather.

There is a difference between hoping that Great Britain will win this war and making certain that she cannot lose. Until more Americans understand that difference, there is danger that the outcome may be tragic for both countries.

Opportunity To Give-a-Christmas

SINCE Mansfield has grown into a larger city, in which it is impossible for each to know of the needs of others—as is common in smaller communities—the almost universal spirit of neighborliness is more difficult to express in a helpful way.

In the larger city, however, those who are unfortunate in being unable to provide for their own needs are as deserving of thought and aid as were the one-time "neighbors" of small town days.

But now it is by group activities, rather than individual acts of kindness, that much of the community's charity must be bestowed.

Approach of Christmas gives increased impetus to charitable thoughts, and to the desire to help others who are less fortunate.

This year the Mansfield Service League and the Junior Association of Commerce, with co-operation of The News-Journal, are providing the vehicle through which Mansfielders will have opportunity to share, to the extent of their ability and desire, in providing Christmas comfort and happiness for families which might otherwise have a sad, gloomy and hungry holiday.

The Mansfield Service League, already credited with many worthy accomplishments in community service, and the Junior Association of Commerce, with youthful enthusiasm and capacity for hard work, are well fitted, in personnel and leadership, to carry through the program which has been developed.

The "Give-a-Christmas" plan is being personalized in an interesting way. Starting yesterday, and continuing from day to day, The News-Journal is printing, in brief form, information as to the needs of more than one hundred families, so that each person who wishes to do so may "adopt" a family for Christmas and provide for the particular requirements of its members.

There's a fascinating human interest story in every one of these family sketches that will appeal to you—don't miss reading each of them.

Merit System In Public Service

CIVIL SERVICE and the merit system in public office represent an ideal widely approved but little applied. Sometimes authority for setting up such a system is in a state's constitution and in statutes, but is not followed in practice.

There are reasons for the failure. One is public indifference, which prevents voters from demanding that laws be obeyed. Another is the continued resistance of politicians, who want to control appointments. State legislatures and city councils often fail to make adequate appropriations to enforce existing laws.

Here is a matter of great importance to the survival of democracy, one of the means patriotic citizens may employ to "make democracy work." It is an enemy of patronage, graft and inefficiency, which are in their turn enemies of the democratic way of life.

There are labors for national defense which can be performed only by experts. But the humblest citizen who does what he can—between elections, when most people forget all about their civic duties—to support effective civil service will aid the national defense in its larger meaning.

Mail Gift Parcels Early

CHRISTMAS BUYERS know all about buying their presents early. That is to say, they know they ought to. Sometimes they even do it. But it's an old and ingrained American custom to mail them late.

Have pity on the postoffice, ladies and gentlemen and children all! Buy lots of those delightful and maddening mottoes that stick on and tell the recipient his box is "Not to be opened till Christmas." If he peeks, more shame to him. He ought—she ought—to take it from the mailman early in the month and with hardly a poke or squeeze put it in the lower bureau drawer or the guest room closet. Then it comes out on the great morning fresh and surprising, just the very thing most desired.

The postoffice people in offices, or trains and trucks are game. So is your favorite mailman. He'll deliver them Christmas week till he drops. But why should he be made to drop? Have a heart!

Do your Christmas mailing early!

'Settlement' That Doesn't Settle

THE instability of the Axis-created regime in Europe is suggested in the movement already under way to restore Transylvania to Rumania. It had been given to Hungary only last August, in an Axis-dictated "settlement" of wrongs created by giving Transylvania to Rumania after the World war.

Promise of the restoration of this piece of much-needed real estate may have quieted the threatened civil war in Rumania, but it is unlikely that this transfer will be any more permanent than all the preceding ones.

Hungary was "appeased" last August, but is murmuring angrily now. The ultimate peace of Europe will not come through such horse-trading, robbery and betrayals.

In the attempted holdup of a loan office in Detroit one bandit was killed and another captured after being wounded—which is a quite satisfactory way of handling such an incident.

An observer expresses belief that fingernail painting is a passing fancy—but it is still in vogue among the untutored savages who originated it.

This is a hard world, but 2,000 persons had time to compete in the 14th annual national contract bridge tournament at Philadelphia.

Looking toward another fight early next year, Joe Louis seems to have gotten quite political aspirations he may have had last month.

History will probably credit the Greeks with putting the "muss" in Mussolini.

SURE SIGN OF APPROACHING CHRISTMAS

Listen World!

You Can't 'Do Nothing'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THAT was a smart line the Chicago University Forum tossed over the air the other day. One of the debaters was arguing for strict neutrality, saying that America should do nothing, absolutely nothing, in the present European crisis. Whereupon another debater cried:

"But that's just the point; you can't 'do nothin'! No matter what program you follow, you're bound to take a stand. Doing nothing put you on the spot just as much as doing something. For 'doing nothing' IS 'doing something'!"

"DOING NOTHING IS DOING SOMETHING"—there's a five-word blitzkrieg that's guaranteed to raise Cain with all forms of human cowardice and complacency. And it's particularly tough on the Fence-Straddlers and Pussyfooters who pride themselves on keeping out of unpleasant situations. For there's no such thing as "playing safe." No matter what program you follow, you're in the picture for better or worse and will have to face the consequences.

And the same rule works in every department of our lives—village politics, neighborhood feuds, family brawls, wherever justice and decency are involved. You don't like being involved. Of course you don't. You hate fuss and discomfort and unwelcome responsibility. Who doesn't. And you're sure there "oughtta be a law" against showing all these terrible war pictures, against printing all these stories about murder, gangsters and bombing raids. In short, you want to keep sin and sorrow and sordidness out of your home—out of your and your children's lives.

Nice notion! But it can't be done. If you try to keep the ugly Truth OUT, you'll simply be keeping an uglier Ignorance IN . . . an Ignorance which will catch up with you sooner or later, and exact a tragic Pay-off.

For here's a little item which you'd better absorb—and pronto. LIFE WAS NEVER INTENDED TO BE SAFE, SERENE OR EXPURGATED FOR ANY ONE OF US. The two chief purposes of life are Growth and Service. And you can't achieve either with your head wrapped in scented chiffon.

IF THERE IS MISERY IN THIS WORLD—IF THERE ARE TREACHERY AND TRICKERY, CRUELTY, INJUSTICE, CRIMINAL STUPIDITY—YOU, AS AN ADULT, SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THEM AND DO SOMETHING ABOUT THEM . . . TAKE SIDES AGAINST THEM AND LET THE WORLD KNOW CLEARLY ON WHICH SIDE YOU STAND.

For, if there's misery, you're responsible for that misery. This is YOUR world . . . YOUR civilization. Willy-nilly, you have inherited it with all its banes and blessings. And you're plenty willing to accept those blessings.

Then stop being chicken-hearted. Face and fight the evil that still goes with the good, as your fathers did before you. They wouldn't let themselves be choosey. They suffered endless hardships, shock and sacrifice that you might have a better break . . . and each generation, in its turn, accepts that debt and obligation. So what? Are YOU, alone, going to take a run-out powder?

Timely Editorial

Crime and Christmas.

Santa Claus is not coming down prison chimneys in Michigan this year. There are to be no Christmas paroles.

"Although Christmas paroles used to be fairly common in Michigan," says Gerald F. Bush, a member of the state parole board, "the present board does not feel that the approach of Christmas is an element in determining a prisoner's parolability."

That is a practical and sensible attitude. There is altogether too much sentiment in American prison administration already. The sole basis upon which paroles should be given is the fitness of the paroless to be let loose in society again.—Detroit Free Press.

Science Gains In Tuberculosis War.

—By DR. CLENDENING

DR. LEWIS J. MOORMAN of Oklahoma City, wrote last year a very clever little article called "A Bug Full of Tricks." He was referring to the germ of tuberculosis and it has, indeed, been a plaguey bug for the human race and one which we have spent some of our best efforts in trying to subdue.

It has probably been an unwelcome and uninvited guest in man's body since the very earliest times. We know from examination of Egyptian mummies that 6,000 years ago on the banks of the Nile it produced its ravages. It certainly caused tuberculosis of the spine and hip, which we can see in mummies, and while there are no lungs left in these remains we must assume that there was tuberculosis of the lungs then also.

Survive Unfavorable Conditions.

It is a microscopic bit of protein and sugar, covered with a skin of wax and this wax apparently has been its means of protection to allow it to survive under unfavorable conditions through long centuries and all sorts of weather conditions. It is possible to culture tubercle bacilli and have them live when picked up from the bodies of these same Egyptian mummies. They withstand cold and rain and heat—at least climatic heat. (And it takes a good deal of surgical sterilization heat to kill them.)

The Bible refers to its ravages in Deuteronomy—"The Lord shall smite thee with a consumption and with a fever and with an inflammation."

Some time ago a famous physician said that there were so many unsolved problems in the field of tuberculosis that "no matter what we take away from infinity, infinity remains."

During the last century, however, mankind has begun to get the better of the old enemy. About a hundred years ago the first open air treatments for tuberculosis were begun. It is only within the last one hundred and fifty years that the different forms of tuberculosis—lung, bone and lymph gland—have been shown to be due to the same cause.

Germ Was Isolated.

About fifty years ago the germ itself was isolated and stained and cultured by Robert Koch and Paul Ehrlich. The use of the stethoscope to detect cases early, and the even more valuable use of the X-ray, discovered in 1895, have given us the means to detect the presence of tuberculosis in those who do not know they have it, and to keep them from infecting other people.

More productive than anything else has been the organized work directed by the National Tuberculosis Association in bringing all these methods to focus on the community problem of tuberculosis. We have long ago learned that people will not come in to hospitals or doctors for tuberculosis until it is too late to do them much good. We have to go out and find them and we have to provide places to treat them after they are found.

This is all part of the work of the National Tuberculosis Association, for the funds of which they depend upon the sale of Christmas seals. Anybody, no matter what his financial status can buy some of these seals and use them on letters during the Christmas season. He may have the satisfaction of knowing when he does this that he is helping in his own way to circumvent the sly ways of the "bug full of trucks."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Dies Promises Not to Hamper FBI With Premature Publicity

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There were no fireworks in that closely guarded conference between the president and Representative Martin Dies. The two men talked things over amiably, though neither pulled his punches.

Roosevelt criticized Dies' publicity antics, and the Texan complained that the FBI had refused to "co-operate." Most of the discussion was on this point.

Roosevelt bluntly declared that Dies had hampered the FBI by releasing premature publicity on subversive agents whose operations were fully known, but who were being secretly kept under surveillance in order to ascertain their tie-ups and higher-ups. He cited three specific instances given him by the FBI.

"I didn't call you here to censure you, Martin," the president said in effect, "but to consult with you on how to get better results in what you are doing. You say you want better co-operation between your committee and the FBI. Fine, but you can't get it by sniping at the FBI. That will have to stop—and stop right now."

Another point Roosevelt stressed was that Dies' shotgun press methods had unjustly cast suspicion on innocent persons. The president mentioned particularly the case of the League for Peace and Democracy, whose mailing list was published by the Dies last year with a big fanfare of publicity.

Dies' Side.

DIES vigorously defended this and tossed several "I-told-you-so's" back at Roosevelt.

"It wasn't our fault if anyone got singed by the publication of those names," Dies argued. "The committee exposed the league as a Communist front long before, and those fellows had plenty of time to have their names taken off the rolls. If they didn't it was their fault.

"Also I might add that we were chiefly responsible for driving the league to cover. You never hear of it any more, and no one doubts any longer that it was controlled by the Reds.

"And, incidentally, we made the same charge against the CIO. I told you in our conference two years ago that John L. Lewis was working with the Communists. Now it's an established fact that at least ten CIO unions with whom Lewis has been cheek-by-jowl are Communist-controlled."

The president admitted that Dies had him there, also that the investigating committee has done some "excellent work." But at the same time, Roosevelt insisted, Dies has been an obstructive influence by interfering with the FBI through "giving too much publicity to your activities."

"Well, the FBI has never gone out of its way to co-operate with us," rebutted Dies. "We've always turned over our files to them, but every time we ask to see an FBI file, they refuse."

In the end, Dies agreed to exercise more care and to confer with Attorney General Bob Jackson on a plan to avoid future conflicts. "In the future," he said, "if a conflict arsises and the FBI is watching a spy or saboteur, I can promise you that we won't interfere."

Note—Dies has one White House supporter. Toward the end of the conference, General "Pa" Watson, the president's hefty appointment secretary, strolled in and several times interjected, "He's right, Mr. President, he's right." Right or wrong, Roosevelt took no chances on subsequent controversy as to what was said. A stenographer took notes of the entire discussion, a very unusual procedure.

Diplomatic Chaff.

G HENRY-HAYE, new French ambassador, will leave Washington soon for "consultations" with Vichy. It is not likely that he will come back. As former mayor of Versailles, Haye was popular with Americans in Paris, but never with Americans in the United States. . . . Irony of diplomatic fate is that when Mussolini marched into Albania, the U. S. state department actually condoned it. Instead of registering a protest as in the case of other occupied countries, the state department dropped the Albanian minister from its diplomatic list. Meanwhile, the diplomatic representatives of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Holland, Belgium, Norway, Denmark, still are listed. But if the Greeks keep on going they will win back Albania for the Albanians. . . . Henry Norweb, who probably will be relieved as ambassador to Peru, has behind him the family which dominates the Cleveland Plain Dealer. This year the Plain Dealer supported Willkie. . . . The Rumanian legation in Washington is almost empty. Most of its diplomats, being pro-British and anti-Nazi, have resigned. Able Minister Irimescu long ago saw the handwriting on the wall and got himself a good engineering job in New York.

Volunteer Ambassador.

NOW that Japan has recognized the puppet Chinese government of Wang Ching-wei, a hitherto confidential story can be told of how the United States was almost put in the position of acting as negotiator between Japan and China.

The story revolves round the amateur diplomacy of Francis Sayre, ambitious son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, now high commissioner to the Philippines. Apparently Mr. Sayre determined, single-handed, to make peace between Japan and China, and several months ago telegraphed Ambassador Grew in Tokyo that he wanted to see the Emperor of Japan, the foreign minister and other bigwigs.

The interview with the emperor never came off, but Sayre did see Foreign Minister Arita, who proposed that the U. S. high commissioner to the Philippines act as secret intermediary at a Hongkong conference between representatives of Japan and General Chiang Kai-shek.

Naturally Commissioner Sayre was flattered, but he had to tell the foreign minister that he was in Japan only unofficially. And when the matter was reported back to the state department, Sayre got a scorching call-down from Acting Secretary of State Welles. The tone of Welles' message was such that it must have been OK'd by the president personally.

What made Sayre's schoolboy diplomacy so embarrassing for the state department was that it came just as the United States had been taking a firm diplomatic stand in the Far East, and urging the British in effect to stand pat regarding the use of the Burma road, chief munitions route for the Chinese army. The state department long has believed, under both Republican and Democratic administrations, that Japan would accept no peace in China unless she took over all of North China, and that any peace overtures by the United States were only misunderstood as a sign of American weakness.

Despite this call-down, Commissioner Sayre made other calls on high Japanese government officials, but finally left Tokyo a very much rebuked and mollified roving ambassador.

Note—Admiral Nomura, Japanese new ambassador to the United States, served as naval attache in Washington while Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy. The two men were good friends, and during the twenty-five years that have elapsed, have kept up a regular correspondence.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Old time "silent" pictures are a revelation in New York. They prove, after an absence of 10 years, that some of those early boys with names that now are legend, didn't need words to act.

There's Lon Chaney, for instance. A reissue of the old silent "Hunchback of Notre Dame" is on 6th Avenue now a the same time the new and costly "Hunchback," with Charles Laughton in the title role, rolls about the country. We didn't think so much of the latter. Not that we loved Charles less, but that we remember Lon as if he were here only yesterday.

The original "Hunchback of Notre Dame" must have been filmed a good 15 years ago. Much of it still is magnificent, as much of Chaney always was and always will be. He was Cleek, the man of the forty faces. . . . He was clown and hunchback and Singapore Joe with a white glaring eye. Remember? There wasn't any pupil in that eye—only a white glaring ball that looked like a hard-boiled egg with the shell removed. When he fastened that eye on you he left a mark on your memory for all the years to come. At least he did on mine.

LAST night at the Commodore I saw something which explains amply why Sammy Kaye has made such a success of his 'So You Want to Lead a Band" stunt. . . . They say almost everybody wants to lead a band some time during his life. Sammy Kaye is capitalizing on this. Every night he invites people in the audience—you, your girl, anybody—to come up and direct. The band will play exactly as you direct. . . . It is a pleasant diversion for all who witness it.

Well, last night a man got up and walked up to the stand. . . . Sure, he said, he would like to lead a band. . . . All his life, he admitted, he had dreamed of leading a band. This man then began to lead—with his hands. Sammy offered him the stick but he refused it. He just led with his hands.

Pretty soon the people began to sense that this man knew what to do. It was a treat to watch him. And no wonder. When he sat down Sammy identified him. He was Otto Klemperer, one of the best known symphonic conductors in the country.

IT HAPPENS about this time every year. Somebody comes forward with a suggestion that a censor, or board of censors, be appointed for the theater. It seems a dangerous recommendation. How can any man or group of men, qualify as judges of what the theater shall or shall not do? The press is supervised except indirectly by the people who read the newspapers. When the public doesn't like anything it soon lets you know. And the same holds true for the theater.

A Farmer's Diary

Singers of Christmas

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

APPROACH of the Christmas season recalls to me an incident of some years ago, at a lonely little cottage on the edge of a wooded slope, down among the hills. It was rainy and the clouds had obscured the evening star. I had lost my way, and stopped to get directions.

I crossed a brook formed by a spring in the sandstone ledge and approached on foot the house, where an oil lamp shone. Blue wood smoke blew down across the path and enveloped me. I felt its welcome—like a primitive caress, and was interested in the dwellers by this humble hearth, although I had never met them.

Then, before I had put foot upon the porch, I heard the music of an old piano and the old school song of years ago—"There's Music in the Air." A woman was singing and three childish voices joined hers. I stood beneath the cedars in the yard and listened. They sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" next and then an old English round.

I heard the children call out and skip across the floor and laughter shook the cottage. I stepped on the porch and rapped.

The woman opened the door and the muffled patter of feet retreated into a far corner. She greeted me graciously and invited me to enter. I stepped inside—as much to see the interior of this home as to state my errand.

Three timid curious children—two boys of eight and six and a girl of four, were dressed in clean white flowing night gowns.

They like to sing with me before they go to bed, explained their mother and added "I like to sing with them. It brings us closer together when evening comes, and makes sleep come easier."

I explained that I had heard enough from outside to make me wish for more, and asked if they would sing for me.

Willingly the three lithe white-gowned figures stood about their mother as she played . . . "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem." As they sang it I felt I had never heard that song before. I forgot the warped floor and the bare, smoked walls of the old room, and the darkness close without. I saw the light shine from a manger to guide a troubled world to peace and happiness—and knew that here was a home that would help to make the world a better place.

GIVE O. K. ON PARK METERS IN MANSFIELD

Merchants Express Favor For New Devices After First 2 Weeks of Operation.

of people. As a matter of fact a number of people have said they would like to see more meters adjacent to the immediate shopping district, meters that could be used for two and two and a half hour parking."

John Cook, H. L. Reed company, North Main street—"I think the meters are fine. I haven't heard a single complaint. Many customers comment on the satisfaction of being able to drive down town and find a place to park in the shopping district."

Carl Russell, Golden-Russell, North Main street—"My customers like the idea of being able to park within easy walking distance of the store. It's a novelty to drive down town and actually find a place to park right in the shopping district. I've heard a few complaints, but at least 80 per cent or more of the customers have been enthusiastic about the meters."

Philip Schmutzler, restaurant-eur, North Park street—"I'm for them 100 per cent. They have helped our business, especially at noon. Factory workers who want to come up town now for lunch can find a place to park. I think the ordinance against double parking of trucks should be enforced and that trucks should be kept out of the downtown area except when they find it necessary to stop."

C. R. Sharp, Bell Music store, South Park street—"I think the city could get the same results by enforcing the hour parking limit in the downtown area. The meters may be helpful to salesmen and short-time shoppers, but they are a nuisance to people who want to spend two or three hours shopping. The meters have hurt our business."

Hardware dealer, South Park street—"I haven't paid much attention to them, and I think it's still too early to tell whether the meters will help or hurt business. I've heard a lot of people complain about them."

Charles Feinberg, clothing dealer, North Park street—"They're not so good for business. They make customers nervous. Sometimes a customer will dash out to drop another penny in the meter while we're waiting on him. The city should keep trucks off the streets around the park and open a good downtown parking lot."

O. O. Brenner, jeweler, West Third Street—"Since the meters went in, parking conditions are 10 per cent better. The buying public can now come down town, transact its business, and be on its way in less time than ever before. Before the meters were used, one car left the curb in front of my store about every 30 minutes. Now from 10 to 15 come and go within the same space of time. I'm certainly in favor of the new system."

Katherine Hartman, Book Shop, West Third Street — "So far I have heard nothing but favorable comment concerning the parking meters. Every day a large number of my customers comment on how much easier it is to find a good place to park. This, of course, facilitates shopping. If shoppers like them, they are obviously good for business."

Department store manager, West Third Street—"The average customer likes the meters and a number of them have commented on how much easier it is to find parking space. As for myself, I have always been in favor of them and think they will be a great help to us business men."

Druggist, South Walnut Street — They're a convenience to my customers. For a penny they can stop near the store where they had to walk before. The penny and nickel combination is a good idea. What we need is more of them.

Department store manager, North Walnut Street—"They relieved congestion and speeded up traffic. Even the trucks can find a place to park on the street now. That's something they couldn't do before. Even on Saturdays the difference can be noted."

C. S. Fernyak, Mansfield Office Supply company, West Third Street — "With my type of business it's hard to tell whether the meters have benefited the volume of the business or not. But I know that my customers like them and that is the main thing. I am in favor of parking meters and I think that the parking meter system should be installed in Mansfield. I think it will work out for the best interest of everyone."

[illegible], North Walnut Street — "I do believe the meters are a good thing. The stores and the people who want to do shopping have come to find a parking space. People do shopping who might have needed that, rather than have been unable to."

Clothing store manager, North Main street—"The meters are the quick answer. They have helped ample parking space. Cars—something that was needed. They unload at the curb and were put on Walnut street."

Bus Driver—"They have helped us to maintain our schedules. They've cleared congestion by forcing the all-day parker out of the business district. Traffic has been speeded up especially during the rush hours we notice the difference."

Playwrights Turn Cooks at Lucas 'Premiere'

After the presentation at Lucas last night of their play "Here Today, Gone Tomorrow" co-authors Louis Bromfield and George Hawkins pitched right in and helped women of the community serve a supper for members of the Mansfield Community Players who comprised the cast. Hawkins dumps a box of nut meats into the salad bowl, in the upper photo, while Bromfield stirs the ingredients. The two women with the authors in the picture were among the large group who gave the supper in appreciation of the performance which was given as a benefit for the Farmer's Institute to be held in January. In the lower photo, part of the pleased crowd is shown leaving the Lucas high school auditorium at the conclusion of the play.

ITALIANS FLEE NORTHWARD TO PORT PALERMO

Marshal Badoglio Resigns as Chief of Fascist Army General Staff.

Greeks had finished mopping up "the whole Kamia heights northwest of Pogradec," where 500 prisoners and much material was captured. Greeks in that sector were scarcely more than 20 miles southeast of Elbasan.

On the central front the Greek spearhead was reported moving along the Devoli river in the Gopesh area, 35 miles southeast of Elbasan.

The northern and central front now were converging into one east and south of Elbasan. The southern front, meanwhile, had spread into three main actions. On the upper end, the Greeks were rushing ahead from Premeti, which they captured two days ago, toward Kosoura, 15 miles northwest, hoping to gain Tepelini, an important base 10 miles west of Kosoura, before the Italians could find a breathing spell and entrench. In the center of the southern front, the Greeks approached Argirokastron. The southern extension of this front is the Porto Edda sector.

A government spokesman said several more villages north of Premedi had been captured.

(The Greek radio was heard at Budapest broadcasting that the Greeks captured Premedi in bayonet fighting and that the Italians had fled so fast they abandoned loaded cannon, which the Greeks turned and fired after them.)

Badoglio Loses Italian Command

ROME — (U.P.) — Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the general staff, the active commander of Italy's land, sea and air forces, resigned today.

No reason was given.

He was succeeded by Gen. Ugo Cavallero, a comparatively obscure army veteran who had been commanding troops on the Italian-French frontier.

(At Berlin, Nazi informants pointed out that Cavallero had played an important part in German-Italian staff cooperation; that he had worked a long time in close contact with the German high command, and that he was a member of the German-Italian economic and military committee.)

It was announced that Gen. Cavallero had taken command immediately and that as a result, preparations for a forthcoming Italian offensive against Greece were expected to be speeded up. The first newspaper published after the announcement, the noon edition of the Piccolo, made no comment and gave little prominence to the change in army leaders.

Badoglio has an outstanding military record, dating back to the Italian-Turkish campaign in 1910.

Badoglio continues as president of the national council of research, which sponsors investigations into both scientific and military fields, it was announced.

A week ago, Greek war dispatches reported that Badoglio had gone to Albania to supersede Gen. Ubaldo Soddu, undersecretary of war in charge of the Greek campaign, and try to prevent an Italian disaster there. Italian officials denied it.

Badoglio held the same position in the Italian army that Gen. Wilhelm Keitel holds in the German army and Mussolini took him along on one of his recent trips to confer with Adolf Hitler, so that he could talk with Keitel, who accompanied Hitler.

Often called "Italy's greatest living soldier," Badoglio was an ardent nationalist, but was closer to the monarch than to Mussolini's Fascist regime, which, at its inception, he offered to destroy. Mussolini's blackshirts then were marching on Rome and Badoglio told the king that if he would let him use one battalion of Royal Carabarini, he would "drive those Fascist upstarts into the sea."

en route here from Washington to observe first hand the outbreak and to obtain laboratory specimens to return to the national institute of health.

Thousands of civilians have been stricken throughout the west in the past two weeks and the epidemic has spread fanwise into the Pacific northwest and southwest into Arizona.

The situation in other states, although physicians said the rate of incidence was "alarming," was not so serious as in California where many schools were closed and substitutes were called to fill vacancies in the assembly lines at airplane factories and other vital defense industries.

Dr. Packer Thurber, team physician, said today at Los Angeles that probably all of USC's ailing footballers, victims of an influenza epidemic, would be able to play against Notre Dame tomorrow.

All of the 14 who were sent to the hospital were scheduled to be released today in time to attend the final drill.

Damage was estimated at $20,000 by John A. Patterson, the plant owner.

pons against German submarines.

(A German announcement said that a British auxiliary cruiser had been "severely damaged" in an engagement in the south Atlantic with a German auxiliary cruiser.)

Fear 5 Ships Go To Bottom

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Silence over the storm swept north Atlantic indicated today that five vessels which radioed they were in distress, may have gone to the bottom.

All were within an area 500 miles west of Ireland and nothing more was heard from them after Mackay radio picked up their calls for assistance. A gale was reported in the vicinity, the same general location where German submarines have been preying on British convoys.

Three of the ships reported they were disabled by the gale. The other two did not give the nature of their difficulties. The Greek freighter Taygetos, 4,295 tons, and the British freighter Newchang, 2,482 tons, reported that they needed "immediate assistance."

Claim British Ship Damaged

BERLIN—(AP)—The high command reported today that a German auxiliary vessel had severely damaged a British ship of the same class in a battle in the south Atlantic and credited a Nazi submarine with sinking four British merchantmen totaling 13,300 tons.

Two of the merchantmen were sunk in convoy, a communique said.

The date of the engagement was not specified.

Authorized sources said German night raiders roared over Portsmouth, naval base on Britain's south coast, in several waves and dropped considerable numbers of bombs with visible success. Numerous fires were said to have been observed.

Authorized sources said only one British plane appeared over Germany last night and it dropped no bombs.

Carnarvon Castle On 'Another Task'

RIO DE JANEIRO — (AP) — British sources said today that the merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle had been expected to arrive here four days ago but, one official explained, she had been "ordered to fulfill another task."

School Principal Says Youth Became 'Arrogant.'

RAVENNA —(U.P.)— J. O. Fox, principal of Garrettsville high school, 12 miles northeast of here, said today he would resist attempts to dismiss him as head of the school because of hi salleged attack upon an 18-year-old senior student.

Robert Duncan, the student, was in a hospital here with a tractured collar bone which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Duncan, charge was received when Fox threw him to the floor in reprimanding him.

Fox maintained that he threw Duncan to the floor when the student became arrogant upon being requested to return to the study hall.

Files $4,000 Suit For 2 Hour Arrest Halloween Night

COLLINSVILLE, Okla.—(AP)—Valdene Claibourn, 19, believes that "Americans—and particularly boys" should be allowed to stay up and have fun as long as they please on Halloween night.

His conviction is so firm that he filed a $4,000 damage suit against Mayor Keith Gunther and Police Chief Ray Davis.

Claibourn's petition contends that Gunther and Davis conspired to "unlawfully and falsely arrest and imprison" him Halloween night because he attempted to uphold "this ancient American tradition of fun making."

Mayor Gunther said:

"The boys wouldn't go home when Halloween was over, so we locked them up for an hour or two. It was just another Halloween."

Federal Court Upholds Morgan Dismissal From TVA.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals today upheld dismissal of Arthur E. Morgan as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Affirming lower court dismissal of Morgan's suit in which he sought recovery of $4,582.33 alleged due in salary, Judge C. C. Simons of Detroit cited a supreme court case which said:

"The power to remove executive officers appointed by the president is conferred upon him by the constitution and so may not be abrogated by statute."

Morgan, president of Antioch college, Yellow Springs, O., was removed by President Roosevelt on March 23, 1938 for "contumacy." Previously the tall, gray-haired engineer had been at odds with other members of the TVA board.

And there was music before the play and between acts by a local orchestra directed by Don Parfitt. Dean Swigart, Eileen Matuck, Maxine Mitchell, Betty Culler, Bill Kaylor, James Metcalf, Wilma Stake, Joan Peyton, Morris Callahan, and Alvin Hawkins were his musicians.

Following the show, the women of the community served a supper to members of the cast. Adding to the home-town atmosphere, Authors Bromfield and Hawkins helped with the serving.

Lacking an accurate check, gatekeepers estimated that the play grossed approximately $400 which was to be turned over to the Farmers' Institute to be held in January.

Presentation of the play at Lucas as an Institute benefit was the only "royalty" which Bromfield asked of the Mansfield Community Players in permitting them to give the play its premiere performance.

Bromfield and Hawkins said they planned to work over the play using the original script written eight years ago in Hollywood and the revised version presented by the players before considering any offers either from the movies or the legitimate stage.

"Here Today, Gone Tomorrow," was the first of three plays scheduled by the Community Players this season. The next one, "I Killed The Count," a comedy mystery, will not be presented until Feb. 11 and the third, "What A Life," has been set for sometime in March.

SANTA and the GIANT-KILLER

BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Three ugly giants plan to bewitch the kingdom of the good, gray Queen. The Queen is celebrating the twenty-first birthday of the daughter Santa gave her.

CHAPTER FIVE

WHOLE KINGDOM FEELS WITCH'S SPELL

THAT night the good, gray Queen had asked her whole kingdom to dance and sing.

It was her daughter's twenty-first birthday — just twenty-one years from the day that Santa had left the little, changeling mermaid in the castle nursery. The Queen had named her Karin and had been very happy with her.

Of course, the Queen didn't know that Karin had been a mermaid. Karin didn't know it either. But the Queen had kept carefully the pearl she had found in the baby's hand. You remember, Neptune had given it to the baby. He said the pearl would tell her what the future held.

Karin had grown into a beautiful young lady with sunny, yellow hair. The whole kingdom loved her.

So this Christmas Eve the Queen was sending gifts of food to all her villages. On the lawn in front of the castle she had set up a Christmas tree higher than the castle towers and topped it with a cluster of red candles that burned like a star. The tree was strung with peppermint candies and red apples.

Just the Right Time.

At dusk there were parties all over the kingdom. That was just the right time for the three ugly giants to cast their spell. They slipped up and down the gardens in the dark. They did just as their wicked mother, the witch of hate, had told them.

The giant who thought he was the sun dropped a drop of his mother's brew into each well and said, "You will stand all day along the roads waiting to admire me. You will forget your husbands and wives and mothers and children.

The giant who wanted to build a wall as high as the sky said, "Now you will work from sunrise to sunset hauling stones and setting them one on top of the other. You will forget your homes."

The giant without a heart said, "You will shout everything that has a song so that I will have the finest voice on the earth."

When the bells tolled midnight the three giants went back to their mountain home. The villagers broke up their dancing and went home and to bed.

The giants on their mountain top felt so pleased at all the evil they had done that they didn't quarrel that night. The giant without a heart sang like a crow, and the other two listened and said he sounded very fine indeed.

Bluebirds Were Silent.

Santa visited the kingdom that night, as he always does on Christmas Eve. He didn't see anything wrong, of course, because everyone was sleeping peacefully.

"YOU WILL FORGET YOUR HOMES."

But when his sleigh rose into the air he noticed that twelve bluebirds were sitting on the bag of toys back of him.

"What is this?" he asked them. But none of them answered. You see bluebirds are the birds of happiness. But just then their hearts were so heavy they could not sing.

Santa took them home with him and gave them each a silver cage. They sang very well in the toyshop. But Santa worried. He knew something must be wrong in the kingdom of the good gray Queen. He sent off some wind faries to find out what the trouble was.

The next morning the good gray Queen woke early because she loved Christmas day. She put on a red velvet dress and pinned on it a bunch of holly. Then she hurried into the great hall where she expected to see everyone rushing around making a big breakfast.

But there was no one in sight. She pulled a bell cord. But the bell echoed through the castle. There was no other sound.

Tomorrow: The Good Gray Queen Deserted.

'TROJAN HORSE' BY DIES, NEW ON LIBRARY LISTS

Un-Americanism Investigator Tells About His Findings In Book Released Here.

Martin Dies, chairman of the House Committee investigating un-American activities, has reported his findings to the nation in a recent book, "The Trojan Horse in America," which was added to the shelves of the Mansfield Public Library this week.

This volume presents a reasoned and realistic analysis of the activities of a mass of agencies from avowed Communists and the German-American Bund to the Fur Workers' International and the Transport Workers' unions, as well as many of the "Christian" and "patriotic" fronts.

Members of the Timely Topics club have presented the library with a volume entitled "The Life and Work of Prince Demetrius Augustine Gallitzen" by Peter Henry Lemcke. Readers, who are interested in arts and crafts will find the following books of special value: "Pottery of the Europeans" by Stiles; "Design for the Craftsman," by Gottshall; "The Weaver's Craft," Simpson and Weir, and "General Leathercraft," Cherry.

New fiction:

MIGHTY MOUNTAIN, by Archie Binns is an historical novel about the Puget Sound country in the mid-nineteenth century. Elmer Hale, a New Englander shipped on a sailing vessel in the early 1850's, intending to see the world. When he reached Washington Territory, where his uncle had already settled, Elmer took up a section of land, married, and announced he was there to stay. The relations between the Indians and white settlers play an important part of the story.

COUNT TEN, by Hans Otto Storm derives its name from the command "count ten" given to Eric Marsden, parachuting to safety as his father falls to death. The scene is California before the first World War; the time extends into the depression. Eric, adventurer-philosopher, lives fully and freely, parachuting from one livelihood to another, jailed as a conscientious objector, caught in labor trouble, attracted to strange women. Much of the story is of the sea.

ASK ME TOMORROW, by James Gould Cozzens is a character study of a young American in Europe, who wants to be a writer but is forced by lack of means to take a position as tutor-companion to the son of a wealthy American widow.

Also on this list:

ENTER THREE WITCHES, by McGuire; UNDERGROUND STREAM, Maltz; THE SNATCH, Goldman.

Recent non-fiction:

MY DEAR LADY, by Marjorie B Greenbie, author of American Saga, is a biography of Anna Ella Carroll, who was a major pamphleteer and spy, a socialite politician and military strategist, and the trusted confidential adviser of President Lincoln throughout the Civil War. Though long known to historians, Miss Carroll's story has not been told because of its sensational nature and the apparent lack of documents to support it. However, recent discoveries throw a new light on the subject, and Mrs Greenbie reconstructs our whole picture of the Civil War in her carefully written well documented book

THE RAVEN'S WING by Elizabeth Sprigge is the moving and romantic story of Elizabeth Wittelsbach, who when scarcely more than a child became Empress of Austria and lived under the shadow of the raven's wing—for to the Hapsburgs that bird was ever a messenger of ill fortune. The strange lives of Ludwig of Bavaria Maximilian Elizabeth's son, Rudolf, and other renowned figures of the time are woven into this tale, against a background of the social and political life of nineteenth century Europe

PARIS FRANCE, by Gertrude Stein was written during the present war but before the invasion of France and is an affectionate characterization of the Paris she knows and loves. Her impressions of the French are entertaining and moving, she pays equal attention to trivial and important things from hats to war

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

If a book is a good book because it is full of fairy tales then these two new titles will be received with joy. There are some parts of the world in which everybody believes in fairies. From such places these books have come.

PISKEY FOLK, by Enys Tregarthen—In Cornwall on the west of England the fairy folk are called Piskeys. These stories of these gay little creatures and the people who knew them are illustrated with photographs of the hills and moors in which they took place. When read aloud these tales will delight both the reader and the listeners.

THE LITTLE BLACK HEN, by Eileen O'Faolain—While this book is one complete story in itself it contains many short tales of fairy enchantment and magic. Most of them concern the little black hen that had been bewitched. The egg from which she hatched had been laid in a fairy fort. The story comes to us from Ireland.

The ice plant, eaten as a delicacy in France, is on the list of noxious weeds in Australia.

MODESTY CASE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. —(INS)— Although the regulations of St. Mary's University in San Antonio require that registering students must submit three photographs, Jack Vondee turned in six pictures of himself. "Three for the registrar and one for each of the girls in the office," Vondee explained modestly.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.— (U.P.)— Thirty sixth-grade students wanted to do their bit in the Community Chest drive. They raided their parents' homes for old coat hangers. The 3,600 hangers found were sold for $12. The money was contributed to the fund.

NAZI RAIDERS SET TEMPO OF LONDON NIGHT

There's No Difficulty Finding Fourth at Bridge In Air Shelters.

(Editor's Note: In the accompanying dispatch, Edward W. Beattie, jr., veteran United Press war correspondent, takes a look at London after dark—the London of the blackouts, the shelters, the German night raiders and crashing anti-aircraft fire.

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, Jr.
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—Life in London after dark is on a timetable—a German timetable that today supersedes British Greenwich time as soon as the sun goes down red and smoky on the winter horizon.

That timetable—the timetable of the Nazi night bombers—rules London's life for 12 to 14 hours these long December nights when the sun has moved south toward the equator.

In London these nights there's no lamp-lighting time. The dusk gathers deeper and deeper in the streets until finally they are black with gloom and night is complete. People hurry faster as the light begins to fade. They are hurrying to hole up for the night. Once dark has fallen it is both dangerous and difficult to be abroad on the streets of London.

Unless you are a policeman, an air raid warden, a fire fighter, a newspaperman or someone else with business that keeps you out, you get to your home or your shelter by nightfall.

What happens then? How do people spend these long night hours?

First we visit an east end shelter:

This great, cavernous building used to be a freight depot. Now it's a shelter where as many as 6,000 persons spend the night on a cobblestone floor. It's safe enough for there are several stout floors above but right there its recommendations cease. Not many east enders had much even before the war. Now they have less and this shelter and others like it are the only homes they have left. They spread their bedraggled bedding on the dusty floor. Some wedge down between huge rolls of newsprint not yet removed. The air is heavy and close.

The people have been thronging in since 4 o'clock. At daylight they must leave so the place can be cleaned up for the next night. If you listen you hear the noise of the shelter—cough, cough, cough.

Next we call at a private home:

"This is an average middle-class home. Behind their blacked-out windows life is not too different from the days before the blitzkreig. But evenings are spent at home and if company is invited to dinner the guests get an overnight invitation. You don't go out to dinner, either, unless there's a promise of a bed as well as a meal. There are no more evenings at the movies.

The folks in this house play a lot of checkers, cribbage and lotto now. That's true at the shelters, too. Never any trouble finding a fourth for bridge.

But, you can still have a night out in London, perhaps at a Mayfair hotel:

In the basement of this hotel there is a ballroom. The room is crowded with smartly dressed people—just the sort who've always filled Mayfair hotel ballrooms. The ballroom used to be an underground storage room. Now you can dine there on lobster thermidor, drink champagne and dance until 1 a. m.

You won't hear the noise of bombs falling or of guns booming. And for an extra $1.25 on the cover charge you get a camp cot and can stay the night.

PAINTS MURAL

Artist Completes University Project After 2 Years.

DURHAM, N. H. —(INS)— Arthur Esner is convinced that mural painting is no child's play.

The Malden, Mass., artist has just completed a 40-foot by 8 foot mural on a wall of the University of New Hampshire.

Two years labor in research and painting was spent by the youthful WPA artist in his mural which depicts New Hampshire industry.

Esner spent 30 weeks studynig New Hampshire industry before he began preliminary sketches. For reasons of clarity and designs, Esner selected only the outstanding industrial activities of the state—farming, shoe and textile manufacturing, logging and recreation. Scenes of factory and field radiate from the central piece which shows a workman, lunchbox in hand, punching his time clock.

Builds Own Boat In Office Shop Here

Dr. Harnly . . . Building His Own Boat

* * * * * *

WORKS ON EYES IN ONE ROOM, BUILDS BOAT IN ANOTHER ONE

Dr. M. D. Harnly always wanted to own a motor boat, so one evening five weeks ago he sat down in his office, 70½ North Main street, to decide what could be done about it.

Today you can see the fruits of his thinking by stepping into a room to the rear of his office and getting a glimpse of the frame work of a sturdy 16-foot, five-passenger inboard motor boat.

When Dr. Harnly, an optometrist, rented his office he also acquired a big back room; so he promptly turned this into a workshop, bought a set of boat plans, and set to work. He has been working on his boat two or three evenings a week for the past five weeks.

"If I really wanted to go into production and work every night," he said, "I could turn out one of these boats every month."

Dr. Harnly was first bitten by the boating "bug" when he lived on the Portage Lakes, near Akron, several years ago.

"Next summer I'm going to take the boat to Lake Erie or Pleasant Hill dam and cruise to my heart's content," he said happily.

With the frame work all set up, he will start this week covering the boat with a special, marine ply-wood purchased specially for his "wave-cutter." As for power, he hasn't decided yet whether he will use an automobile motor or buy a regular marine engine. At any rate, he figures the boat will cost him only about $200.

Unlike most persons who build boats, Dr. Harnly has figured out how he's going to get his out of the work shop.

"Look," he said, grabbing a yardstick and measuring the height of the boat, "my boat is only 33 inches high and the window is 36 inches wide. About five men and a little muscle will get his boat out of here in no time."

Dr. Harnly's workshop is fully equipped with tools, work bench, buzz saw, and all other necessary boat-building implements. As an added convenience, he has pasted his plans to the wall of the room.

"Although my wife thinks I've gone a bit 'whacky' over building this boat," Dr. Harnly chuckled, "I'm still not as bad as a friend of mine in Columbus. He built his boat in his dining room."

FOSSILIZED RATTLERS.

SULPHUR, Okla. —(U.P.)— So well preserved that the grain of the skin could be seen, the petrified bodies of four diamond-back rattlers were found in the Dougherty, Okla., mine of the Southern Rock Asphalt company. Three of the fossils lay in coil. The diamond markings on their backs could be easily observed.

$18,372 Finding Made Against Sanatorium Officials

CHARGED WITH PERSONAL USE OF EQUIPMENT

Examiners Say Mt. Vernon Grocery Account Fed Doctor's Family.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Charging that they had used government equipment and supplies for personal use, state examiners today returned a finding totaling $18,372 against Dr. F. C. Anderson, superintendent of the state sanatorium in Mt. Vernon, and his wife, matron at the institution.

The report, released by state auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, listed three major findings, as follows:

Against Dr. Anderson and his bonding firm, a total of $13,300 for alleged receipts, derived from taking X-ray pictures, not accounted for.

Against Dr. Anderson, the sum of $2,381.30, based on the asserted improper use of state-purchased gasoline; one against Mrs. Anderson for $2,691.86 on a similar charge.

The report covered a period from Jan. 1, 1930 to Sept. 15, 1940, and assertedly is based on an audit of the financial transactions of the institution, detailed examination of X-ray receipts and use of state-purchased gasoline.

Commenting on the examiner's report, Ferguson declared:

"It appears to have been the practice of Dr. Anderson to retain certain fees derived from the use of state-owned equipment on the theory that he was rendering private consultation to persons sent to the institution for the purpose of having X-rays taken."

According to the report, a total of 2500 pictures were taken during the 10-year period and receipts for them "have not been accounted for to the state treasury or any local institutional fund."

State law, Ferguson pointed out, requires the superintendent, matron and other employes to devote their full time to the institution.

Regarding the alleged improper use of state gasoline, the report charges that 17,000 gallons were used in the superintendent's personal auto during the 10-year period, and that the total amount charged to the use of Mrs. Anderson during the 10 years was 19,200 gallons.

According to the report, the superintendent is permitted a mileage allowance of 500 miles per month "which apparently is intended to include the cost of gasoline used in state business."

The examiner asserted that the fuel charged against the superintendent and matron was drawn from a storage tank at the institution. In connection with the charge against Mrs. Anderson, the report continues:

"The duties of a matron are the general supervision of the domestic arrangements of the institution and she should devote her time to the comfort and welfare of inmates. Therefore, there is no reason for an automobile owned by the matron personally to be supplied with gasoline purchased from state funds."

Also criticized in the report was the alleged improper use of an account maintained at a Mt. Vernon grocery store for the institution.

"The examiners find that the majority of articles purchased are for consumption in the superintendent's apartment," the statement continued, "as for instance, dressed chickens, milk, cream and other delicacies, although the institution has a herd of 50 milch cows and a flock of poultry that supply most of the common needs of the institution."

The report concludes with a charge that a stone-owned truck was used to haul a riding horse owned by Dr. Anderson's daughter from Mt. Vernon to Denison university at Granville when she entered college.

CHRISTMAS FOR 100 FAMILIES

That's Goal of News-Journal, Service League, and J. A. C. In Current Campaign.

FAMILY NO. 9

Six children and two adults Four of the children in school and two younger. The youngest child is just recovering from pneumonia, and the father is in poor health because of a chest condition, and unable to work. The entire family is undernourished and in need of milk and nourishing food. There is no income and the family needs furniture, especially a rug. The children are attractive and it would be fun to give them a Christmas.

FAMILY NO. 10.

Here again circumstances beyond control of the family are to blame for much of their misfortune. This past summer the father's hand was permanently injured, making work a problem. There are two children—youngest is 11—and the father and mother. The mother also is a victim of ill health. They need not only a bit of Christmas cheer, but a basket of substantial foods.

FAMILY NO. 11.

Father, mother and five small boys. Family lives in a garage too small for their needs. The home is neat but bare and unattractive. Three fine loking boys go to school and need mittens and hose. The father has been ill and is just recovering from a severe nervous breakdown, while the mother recently underwent an operation. Food, dishes, bedding are actual needs, and a few simple toys would make a happier Christmas for the boys.

FAMILY No. 12.

Two adults, widow and an invalid daughter. There is an old age pension which is inadequate to maintain a home and two people. The mother is nursing the invalid daughter and their life and home are dreary. The mother needs a warm coat, size 44. They both need to be remembered at Christmas.

HEARS REQUEST ON DOG POUND

Board Refuses Refuge Society Seeking To Operate County Canine Shelter.

Richland county commissioners told representatives of the Angell Refuge society yesterday that the county would accept suggestions from the society for the operation of the new county dog pound, but the commissioners refused to turn the pound over to the society.

A delegation of officers and members of the society called on the commissioners to seek adoption of their plan for operating the dog pound or to give the group free reign in handling the pound.

"The county is going to continue to operate the pound, but we are willing to use so far as possible the proposals of the Angell Refuge group for changes in the method of housing and destroying stray dogs," C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, said.

Work is scheduled to start soon on a new $1,500 pound at the county fair ground, and the building will be ready for use early next spring, Mitchell said. The pound will be built as a National Youth administration project with the county providing building materials.

In the delegation which conferred yesterday with the commissioners were J. Leo Hartmann, chairman of the Refuge society; Mrs. E. F. Cleland, and Misses Helen and Florence Workman.

SHERIFF, TRYING TO 'GET HIS MAN', HITS SNAG IN TENNESSEE

After trying unsuccessfully for three weeks to get a prisoner out of Arkansas, Sheriff E. P. Long finally got his man as far as Memphis, Tenn., just over the state line, yesterday, but there he was stymied again.

Tennessee authorities detained the prisoner, John Wilburn, at Memphis after an attorney filed a habeas corpus action in his behalf. Wilburn, wanted here on a bad check charge, was taken to jail in Memphis to await a hearing on the request for a habeas writ. Wilburn would be freed in Tennessee if the writ is granted.

Uncertain when the case will be heard, Sheriff Long and Detective Oscar Krupp who accompanied him to Arkansas hadn't decided today whether to wait or to come on home without their man.

Wilburn was released to Sheriff Long Wednesday by the Arkansas governor following a hearing at Little Rock. Authorities there refused to turn him over to Richland county three weeks ago when Sheriff Long and Prosecutor G. W. Marriott went to Arkansas after him.

A charge filed here last February by R. M. Calene, manager of the J. C. Penney store, accuses Wilburn of cashing a worthless $20 check at the store.

Authorities here said Wilburn apparently had an attorney waiting at the Tennessee-Arkansas state line with the habeas action after he learned that Sheriff Long and Detective Krupp planned to return home through Tennessee. The Mississippi river separates the two states.

DEMAND FUNDS BE RESTORED

Court Says Leniency Depends on Full Restitution.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Leniency in the case of Margaret Ann Warden of Vermilion, who pleaded guilty to embezzling $600 from a Cleveland hotel to care for her stable of show horses, depends on complete restitution, Judge George P. Baer said today.

Sentence was delayed pending a probation officer's report Dec. 21.

Last July, Miss Warden confessed embezzlement of $9,000 from the hotel which employed her for 16 years, Detective Lieutenant Thomas Murphy said.

After the ceremonies the girls staged a program made up of tap dancing, readings, accordion, guitar and piano music, and several American folk dances.

Leaders of the Woodville troop are Frances Wolfe, Mrs. L. Hawkins and Mrs. R. D. McCollough.

Plans were laid last night for the organization of a new Girl Scout troop at Woodland school. At a meeting at the school about 21 girls signified their desire to join a troop and Miss Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive, talked to them about the work. A committee made up of Mrs. Merrill Manz, Mrs. F. E. Ross, and Mrs. Paul Endress, was named to make plans for the organization.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO HURRY ABOUT IT

All players know the axiomatic rule about laying down the card that assures immediate defeat of a contract rather than trying for a bigger set which may possibly result in not beating it at all. But when some other move may be made which in no way jeopardizes your chances of beating the declarer, but merely promises that you will give him a worse beating, the thing to do is to forget the first rule. Remember that at all times your winning objective is to put points on your side of the score sheet—as many as you can—while limiting the opponents' score to as small a size as possible

	♠ A 3 ♥ K J 10 4 2 ♦ A ♣ 10 8 6 5 2
♠ K 9 8 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ K 5 4 ♣ A K J 4	W. N. E. S.	♠ Q 7 2 ♥ A 7 5 ♦ 10 7 6 3 2 ♣ Q 9
	♠ J 10 6 5 4 ♥ 6 3 ♦ Q J 9 8 ♣ 7 3

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
2 ♣	2 ♦	2 ♠	2 NT
3 ♠	3 NT	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl

West should really have been allowed to try his 3-No Trumps, at which North and South could have beaten him with any kind of defense, but apparently both sides were determined upon bad bidding, producing an unnecessary sacrifice on the part of the side which finally got the contract.

Three club leads by West were climaxed by East ruffing the third with his Q because he thought he saw a sure set, which he proceeded to realize by then laying down his heat A. That set up the entire heart suit, in view of the marked finesse, and the only other trick taken by the defenders was the spade K, which West scored later.

East could have given South a worse dose of medicine by holding on with his heart A and instead leading a diamond to the rummy's A, thus taking an entry out of that hand. Figure out for yourself how the progress of play would have gone then East could easily have seen that there was nothing in the rummy on which South might discard losing hearts. There would have been a risk to this play, except on the positive side that it might produce a bigger set by a trick or two

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 10 4 2 ♥ A 10 8 ♦ K Q J 10 5 4 ♣ 4
♠ 9 7 6 2 ♥ 4 3 2 ♦ 9 8 7 3 ♣ J 7	W. N. E. S.	♠ A K 5 ♥ K J 7 5 ♦ A 6 2 ♣ K 9 8
	♠ Q J 8 ♥ Q 9 6 ♦ None ♣ A Q 10 6 5 3 2

(Dealer: East-West vulnerable.)

If West leads the spade 3, dummy playing the 2 and East the K, is there any way South can make the crazy 3-No Trumps into which he got himself on this deal?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian caught her breath sharply.

"What do you think she knows?" she asked.

"More than she's going to keep secret from me," I said with a confidence I did not quite feel, for I knew that powers of secretiveness and deceit were the possession of young girls in the grip of terror such as Carolyn was probably facing But there was no use in letting Lillian share my qualms.

"But won't the authorities know you're interviewing her?" she queried and I saw that her obsession concerning the keeping of Marion's record clear at the college was blinding her usually balanced faculties to everything else.

"Not the way I shall manage it," I told her. "I shall telephone Carolyn and ask her to come to dinner with me at the hotel, and no one will be the wiser."

"She's likely to get all steamed up at the message," Lillian pointed out, "and may say something over the wire which would give the whole thing away to possible listeners-in."

"That is entirely probable," I admitted, "but I can obviate that by sending her a guarded telegram at once. Tell me what would be the most convincing thing to say to her."

I already had a telegram mentally mapped out, but I wanted above all things to keep Lillian's mind occupied with action instead of brooding, and I rejoiced when I saw her eyebrows knit and knew she had taken my bait.

"'Coming to Weirhampton tomorrow,' you might say," she began "'Have message for you from friends Would like to have you dine with me Will telephone you as soon as I get in town Margaret Graham.' How does that strike you?"

"It couldn't be better," I told her truthfully. "I had thought of saying 'message from your mother,' but this is much better."

"Yes, according to that letter from Helena she's been telephoning to Carolyn concerning Ronald. Carolyn was quite jittery about it when I talked to her. Indeed, that was the only place I slipped up. I shouldn't have telephoned Carolyn at all. I took all the precautions possible, told her when I called up to go to a public booth and reverse a call to me, but she was so excited that she let slip one or two references which would have betrayed the truth to anybody listening in. I can only hope nobody was on the wire while we were talking."

"There probably wasn't," I told her comfortingly. "And I am sure this telegram you have outlined will turn the trick. Shall I telephone now? I might as well get it off, for I want to start for Weirhampton as soon as Dicky gets back with the car."

Her face was suddenly taut with nervous fear.

"You mean you're going to leave me here alone?" she asked.

"Why don't you come with me?" I countered, although I already knew what her answer would be.

A Call From Dicky.

"I can't do that," she said with emphasis "In the first place, I mustn't leave here If Marion telephoned you and asked you to tell me that she was safe, she may be able to telephone me someday, and I don't want to be away from this phone or this house a single minute. You can do more than I can do in hunting for her, and you see I have no compunction about calling upon you for help. But I must not leave here, and I do dread staying alone. But forget I said anything about that. You must go, of course? Are you going alone?"

"I want to get there as soon as possible," I answered, "and I do not know whether or not Dicky can go with me It all depends on this errand of his."

"If only I knew where I could get hold of Harry today," she sighed, and I knew that she, generally the most self-reliant of women, was longing for the strength and dependability that were shining attributes of her husband.

From the hall, the telephone shrilled a message, and Lillian started up wildly.

"It may be Marion," she said, but I put a restraining hand upon her wrist

"I think it's for me," I said. "I'm expecting a call from Dicky," and in another few seconds Miss Whitlock, at the door, proved me a true prophet by saying, "Your husband is on the wire, Mrs. Graham."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 7.

Swift moving events, of a sudden and surprising nature, may be expected from the rule of interesting planets. In all directions a more than lively tempo is assured, with travel, removal, all sorts of new interests and adventures, which may demand re-arranged programs, fresh associates and environs. All pertaining to writings, publication, inventions, patents and correspondence should prosper.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised if the year unfolds some rather sudden, mysterious, surprising and bewildering experiences Affairs should move swiftly and with dramatic thrill, possibly in absolutely new and unforeseen directions Travel and change, new associations and interests

A child born on this day will have great versatility, talent, possibly to the point of genius. Perhaps with pen, brush, voice or drama, with skill in invention, discovery or psychic leading to some brilliant achievement.

Dotting every campus from coast to coast is that sturdy standby of college girls, corduroy, which has assumed the utmost fashion significance this year along with its practicality. One sees it in short boxy coats, in suits, dresses, jumpers and slacks, frequently with matching skull caps or jockey caps and handbags or mittens. Velveteen is almost as popular for dresses, suits and jerkins for class-wear and dates, in bouffant evening gowns for weekend dances; and in matching caps and handbags.

Admits Shooting Woman 'for Mark to Remember Me'

MOTHER OF 4 CHILDREN AT DEATH'S DOOR

Ex-Convict Objected To Her Returning To Husband After Separation.

(By Associated Press)

EAST LIVERPOOL — John Dunfill, 45, admitted he held his arm around Mrs. Sylvia Anderson, 45, as he pressed a pistol to her head and fired. Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott reported today.

Hospital attendants expected her to die.

Police trapped Dunfill at Congo, W. Va., across the Ohio river as he attempted to flee. McDermott said he confessed and returned willingly.

McDermott quoted him as saying he called his former companion to the door of her home and shot her yesterday because he "didn't like the idea" of her returning to her husband after a four-year separation.

One of Mrs. Anderson's four children, a five-year-old daughter, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Anderson, witnessed the shooting.

McDermott said Dunfill, a steel worker and ex-convict, claimed: "I didn't intend to kill her—just mark her. I wanted to leave a mark on her so she would remember me."

Dunfill was charged with shooting with intent to kill pending the outcome of Mrs. Anderson's head wound.

After the shooting, McDermott reported, Dunfill drove to a pottery where his wife was working and told her he had "shot a woman" and persuaded her to accompany him to Congo where he left her.

Mrs. Dunfill reported to police she was afraid of her husband. Police drove Dunfill's automobile back to Congo, where he expected to meet his wife again and arrested him as he emerged from his hiding place.

McDermott quoted Dunfill as saying he had known Mrs. Anderson for 15 years and before she married Anderson, a mill worker, in 1931. In that year Dunfill started a one-year prison team for burglary and, later, was sentenced to four more years.

Howard Anderson, husband of the victim, said he and his wife had "agreed to forget the past for the sake of our children."

Britain's Need for Financial Aid Studied

When Y. M. C. A. members and their friends attend the annual Y. M. C. A. membership dance in the "Y" gymnasium tonight they will see one of the largest Santa Clauses ever to preside over a Christmas dance here. The Santa Claus was obtained by Don D. Cram, physical director, a few days ago from a huge bill board poster. Aided by Robert McCullough, Robert Stone, Johnny Fike, Vernon Smeltzer and other "Y" members, the Santa was cut out and mounted on a big board. The boys were so proud of their work today that they decided to hang the "St. Nick" outside the Y. M. C. A. building during the Christmas season.

Patrolman C. W. Kyler was checking parking meters on Park avenue west this morning when he came across one in front of the Mansfield-Leland hotel with the "violation" sign showing and a note attached. Here is what the officer read: "Officer, there is a nickel in the slot. Please turn the handle. I'll be out at 9 a. m." Kyler said he twisted the crank and sure enough the violation sign disappeared. The hotel guest put the coin in the meter before retiring last night.

Judge C. H. Huston thought he had heard all the excuses from prisoners during his years in court, but he listened to a new one yesterday and it sounded so good that he decided to investigate. A prisoner, returned from Akron for violation of his probation because of his arrest in Akron said he served a 30-day term in the Akron workhouse for drunk driving because of mistaken identity. He told Judge Huston that he was at the scene of an accident in Akron when the driver of one of the cars in the crash accused him of being the driver of the other machine in the accident. Police, he said, arrested him and he was convicted on a drunk driving charge. Judge Huston continued the case and told Prosecutor G. W. Marriott to investigate.

MUNICIPALITIES SEEKING FUNDS

Put Collective Weight Back of Measures Planned For Legislature.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Local subdivisions, hard pressed for new sources of revenue, joined today in a movement to throw their collective weight behind measures to be brought before the new general assembly.

An organization of municipal, county and township officials, representing a dozen separate organizations, voted to create a general committee to draft legislation.

Already there were strong indications that the combined local groups would insist upon a larger share of state funds.

The Ohio association of county auditors concluded their annual convention with a demand for more state sales tax money, a request that auto license revenue be allocated to county general funds, and a proposal that all personal property be assessed at 100 per cent of its value.

Oscar G. Dunn of Elyria, president of the Ohio county commissioners' association, presided at the meeting of various subdivision officials and said the new organization's purpose "is to eliminate conflicts which might arise through individual sponsorship of legislation and see to it that any bill introduced does not work against any group."

A proposal for the creation of county civil service commissions to offset the state commission revise its rate base for county and municipal employes were slated for consideration, Dunn said.

GREYBEARDS SHUDDER AS LIFE GOES ON AND DEANNA GROWS UP

(Picture on Page 19)

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Read no more of this if you want to continue feeling young.

Deanna Durbin takes a husband next summer.

Only a few months ago she was the center of a controversy on the Universal Pictures lot. Producers argued whether to permit her first screen romance to culminate in a kiss.

Two days ago she celebrated her 19th birthday and her production crew, which has worked with her for four years, gave her a surprise party complete with birthday cake and candles. Today these men hardly could believe that their little girl was engaged to Vaughn Paul, 25-year-old producer.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Durbin, announced their engagement. They will be married next summer.

She came to the Universal lot from Winnipeg, Canada, in 1936, a round-cheeked child whose singing voice had touched the heart of comedian Eddie Cantor. She sang a few songs in a minor picture, "Three Smart Girls," and was a hit. Two years later she starred in "Mad About Music" and was a bigger hit. Universal realized enough off that picture to avoid bankruptcy.

In her first picture, she met an assistant director. She thought he was nice because, unlike the rest of the company, he didn't treat her like a child. At 21 he was only five years her senior. He was Vaughn Paul.

Paul worked on each of her eight pictures and now is an associate producer in charge of her ninth production.

Miss Durbin earns one of the highest salaries in the business. With bonuses, her income is around $5,000 a week, and Universal is reaping the harvest which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer overlooked. M-G-M once had her under contract, thought she lacked box office appeal ,and fired her.

CONFERENCES OVER FUTURE COURSE OPEN

Treasury Officials Discuss Situation With British Undersecretary.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., began a series of conferences today which will explore Great Britain's case for financial aid.

These conferences, which may last several days and will include many American fiscal experts, are expected to help President Roosevelt's administration decide its future course with respect to possible loans or extension of credit to Britain.

Sir Frederick has declined to state whether he would seek financial assistance and has said that Britain was "never in better" financial condition. Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, however, said last week upon his return from England that some form of financial cooperation would be needed early next year if Britain is to continue the war.

Morgenthau and Secretary of Commerce and Federal Loan Administrator Jesse H. Jones have declared Great Britain to be a "good risk." Isolationist congressmen, notably Sen. Bennet C. Clark, D., Mo., have differed sharply on that question, recalling that Great Britain has paid nothing on the principle or interest of its World war debt to this country since 1933.

Sir Frederick's conference and the subject of possible financial assistance to Britain over-shadowed other British aid developments which included unofficial indications that the administration next year may ask congress to authorize the sale to Britain, possibly through Canada, of munitions, ordnance and ships produced in government-owned arsenals and shipyards. Congress recently authorized similar sales to Latin American countries provided they do not interfere with the national defense program.

H. H. Wolf, Amoy road, is president of the board. C. S. Henry, Weller township, one of the directors whose term expires Jan. 1, is vice president; A. W. Strater, Mansfield, is treasurer, and R. D. Hale, Mansfield, is secretary.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember.)

Liz Whitney keeps a score of dogs of all descriptions romping about her California house, and recently she invented a new kind of canine. Eye-witnesses report it looks faintly like a German shepherd, but Liz calls it a "love dog."

Herman Shumlin, the producer, discusses all his new plays with the elevator man in his office building. . . . When Jack Dempsey calls a waiter to his table any time after dinner, he doesn't have to order. The waiters all know he always wants apple pie and coffee.

Mrs. Erich Maria Remarque, wife of the author of "All Quiet," is a better palm-reader than most of the gypsies who make a living at it. . . . Irving Berlin is a fast man with a knife and fork, but he never gains an ounce. He's one of the thinnest tunesmiths around.

Henrick Van Loon, the artist-author, is having a wonderful time with Frank Cave's picture, which hangs in the lobby of the Algonquin these days advertising Mr. Case's new opus, "Do Not Disturb." Mr. Loon's pleasure is to color these photographs with pigment from the little tubes he carries in his pocket. One day this week he gave Mr. Case a goatee.

Before that, he painted on side-burns. Once he made him cross-eyed, and still another time he made him bald. As a result, the Algonquin lobby has to display a fresh placard every time Mr. Van Loon passes by, and the publishers, who supply fresh placards, can't imagine what is eating up the quota.

Mr. Case and Mr. Van Loon talk almost every day, but they have never mentioned the matter.

* * *

I have no explanation for this one, but Dr. Otto Preminger, who is a Viennese in Manhattan, sports Nebraska license plates on his car. . . . Ben Bernie switched from incessant cigar smoking to a pipe because his radio sponsor was a pipe tobacco firm. Now that his current check-payer is a headache remedy, he's back to smoking cigars!

When Peggy Hopkins Joyce had her wisdom teeth yanked recently, she claimed she felt no pain because her dentist told her such terrifically funny stories. If you beg her, she'll even tell you the funny stories.

Ann Graham, the "Panama Hattie" showgirl, has been up No'th so long she talks almost like a New Yorker, so whenever she goes back to visit Birmingham, Ala., she practices up on her Southern accent en route—so folks won't think she's become a Yankee.

Adelaide Moffett has originated a new drink (contents secret) at Armando's. The bartenders refer to it as the "Moffett Special".

Ezra Stone is a champion spare-rib eater.

Al Jolson never gets into his stage makeup until a few minutes before the curtain goes up on "Hold On To Your Hats," because he's always busy chatting with pals at the stage door, checking the box office, and debating with his manager.

Brian Aherne is bored by autograph hunters. Maurice Evans isn't. . . . Sherman Billingley has a novel idea. He's going to staff the new "Cub Room" with waiters who speak English! . . . Phyllis Brooks does a rhumba with Victor Mature that you could fry an egg on.

Fred Waring, the ork pilot, is a comic strip addict. He really worries about what's going to happen to those pen-and-ink adventurers. . . . It sounds like a gag but Bing Crosby's dog really listens to his master's Thursday night radio program, and he barks if Bing is dialed off.

* * *

Probably few gals who ever showed their decorative faces around the Broadway night spots could come up to Merry Fahrney, the erstwhile Countess Cassini, for whimsical deportment. Merry had one pet name for several of the men in her life. She called them all "Rosebud." And once, before his marriage and between her weddings, she sent Harry Richman a poached egg in a Cartier box.

Ted Collins, the airways producer, has a habit of leaving his office to keep an appointment, and phoning his secretary the next day from some hideout where he's gone fishing.

William Saroyan frequently takes out a notebook and writes diligently for hours on end, giving everyone the impression that he is hard at work on a new play for the Theater Guild. But all the time he's just scrawling "William Saroyan" in a dozen kinds of fancy handwriting.

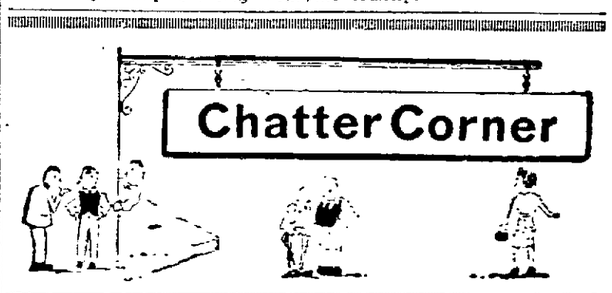
Harry Carey brought two Indian servants with him when he came to Manhattan. . . . Tallulah Bankhead once heard that Sheila Barrett was preparing a satire on her, and instead of getting mad she called up the mimic immediately to find out if she could help with it!

Fred Keating, the magician, goes into Sardi's and makes all the knives and forks vanish. . . . Leon, of Leon and Eddie's, almost never goes to the movies, but he's been to the Rivoli to see Marlene Dietrich in "Seven Sinners" every night since the film opened.

Chic (Hellzapoppin) Johnson is a Grade A hypochondriac. You can always find him at the drug store getting a new prescription filled. . . . Eddie Bush, the slim Hurricane maestro, used to be a "stunt extra" in silent pictures. Once he dressed up in girl's clothes and rode a horse as Lupe Velez.

Henriette Kaye, who sculpts and acts, has heads of many famous stage and screen personages on exhibition in museums all over the country.



(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

M. P. Wolcott telling of a letter from his son, Mark, who is a student at the medical school of University of Pennsylvania. Mark will take his internship at University hospital, Philadelphia. Was pleased that he also had been offered an internship at the Massachusetts Institute hospital in Boston. . . . Mrs. William Ridge of Lucas shopping here yesterday. Just returned from Syracuse where she spent several months with her son Kirk Ridge piano prof at Syracuse university. . . . Mrs. W. E. Isabel Mosey waiting on a corner. . . . Mary Jane Curtiss hurrying along on her way to school. . . . Lucille Gabor greeting an acquaintance in a down town elevator. . . . Willeen Triesch, city hall telephone operator, studying the intricacies of the new private branch exchange board installed while phone company revamps the old switchboard for dial service. . . . Senior high school Hyphonerian staff members taking over the office of Rickets and Nichols as the paper "goes to press."

Bart Herring giving expert advice to pin-ball players at a drug store. . . . Dr. C. R. Hien busy rounding up former Ohio State university students to help him plan the annual Ohio State Alumni banquet. . . . Four Massillon Players Picked on A-P Scholastic Team

Gillom Voted 'Outstanding' Player In State

Russell, Wallace and James Are Other Tiger Gridders Named On All-Ohio Combine.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—From the field of 17,000 boys who trod Ohio's scholastic gridirons this fall, there emerged today the "1000-to-1" shots—the 11 lads making up the 1940 Associated Press all-Ohio high school team.

They're big, they're tough, they're fast and they're versatile, these gridiron greats who fought their way to the top against thousands of competitors.

In the matter of sheer number, it is tougher to "make" the all-Ohio high school team than it is to make the all-American college squad, for close to 500 schools had candidates for the Buckeye honorary group, while only about 200 colleges are considered in the all-America setup.

* * *

Massillon's mighty Tigers, the finest football unit in the state for the last five years, placed four men on the first team, while no other school had more than one.

Several coaches suggested that "if you name the entire Massillon team to the first string, you won't be far wrong," but there was too much talent scattered about the state to hand all the laurels to the terrific Tigers

Two of Massillon's All-Ohio choices are "mighty mites"—Tom James at quarterback weighing only 155, and Bill Wallace at guard tipping the beam at only 154. But outside of the two dynamic little lads, the team is made up of six-footers.

With James in the backfield are Athie Garrison, Canton McKinley's great negro flash; Eugene Fekete, Findlay's triple-threat

Cuemen and City News Win Contests

Quintets Register Triumphs In Senior League Play.

THE Rex Billiards and City News walked off with honors as the Friendly House Senior White Class A basketball league opened its 1940-41 season at the settlement last night.

With George Bosko leading the attack, the Billiards, seeking the championship held by the Raemelton Farm five last season, marked up a one-sided 30 to 16 triumph over the Daley Cafe team.

In the other setto, the City News encountered little trouble in turning back the Sferro Lunch quintet, 28 to 13.

It looked like the Cuemen were going to have their hands full against the Cafe club, Daley's outfit gained a 4 to 3 lead in the initial period, but fell behind 9 to 8 at the intermission.

The Billiards, however, broke loose on a scoring spree after the rest period and went into the final frame sporting a 20 to 11 advantage. Bosko dumped in seven points for the winners.

There was never any doubt of the outcome of the second tilt. With S. Bosko collecting 10 points, the City News gained a 9 to 1 lead in the first quarter and never trailed.

* * *

The winners led, 17 to 6, at the half and 21 to 9 at the end of the third stanza.

Cagers May Be Banned

12 College Players Performed Against Pros.

DENVER—(U.P.)—A rumor persisted at the 52nd annual Amateur Athletic Union convention today that 12 college basketball players, who, as an all-star team, played a professional team in Chicago last week, would be banned from further amateur sports events.

The All-Stars defeated the Harlem Globe Trotters, the national professional champions, for a mythical "open basketball championship."

The A. A. U was reported to have told the players it could not sanction their participation against professionals when they applied for permission to play in the game. According to the rumors, they ignored the ruling.

If the organization declares them ineligible, they would be banned from participating in A. A. U. sanctioned events for at least a year and then reinstated only after admitting a violation of the amateur code.

Among those involved were Ralph Vaughn Southern California; Irwin Prasse, Iowa university; Stan Szukala, Depaul, and Bob Carpenter, East Texas Teachers.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

LAS VEGAS—(U.P.)—Does Nebraska University want a real gambling quarterback at the helm of its team when it plays Stanford in the Rose Bowl?

Do the Cornhuskers want to perfect the mouse-trap game as it never has been perfected before? Do they want to learn the real intricacies of the spinner?

If they do, then Major Biff Jones should immediately accept the invitation of the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce to make this town a stop en route to the Rose Bowl.

In offering the invitation the Chamber of Commerce, with becoming modesty, mentioned only such Las Vegas virtues as climate, training facilities and proximity to Pasadena. It didn't mention the possible learning a football team might gain from the gambling facilities of this town, which proudly advertises itself as the "last frontier."

They have a great spinner teacher here. It goes under the name of roulette. There is any number of formations you can operate from on the Las Vegas spinner. I like a little play called 31-29-14. If it works it can shake you right out into the cellar toward the payoff land, and if it fails there is no offside penalty. You just start off from scratch.

Now take that mouse-trap play. It is a very important deal during the season. But there is a little game that is operated here that will teach a fellow more about the importance of a mouse and trap in 10 minutes than all the coaches could in a year.

I won't describe this device to you in full, because the memory of it is too painful. But there is this about it: A mouse sits in a little box that has a trap door. Beneath the mouse and the box is a wheel with 35 little openings in it. The wheel is spun, the mouse is dropped through the door and eventually runs into one of the numbered openings. If he happens to select the opening you chose you are rewarded at 35 to 1.

I have known some contrary mice in my time, but the mouse who was playing the leading role when I visited his shop was tops. He approached the openings of my choice as if they had been baited with 10-pound tom cats.

No quarterback could stay around Las Vegas long without developing a gambling instinct. Every other building houses a gaming place of one sort or another, and the citizens consider them as the citizens of other towns do the butcher shop, the bakery, the dry goods emporium and the dentist's office.

* * *

There may be another town like Las Vegas, but I'll be darned if I have run across it, and I've been a scout for Rand-McNally for 12 years.

"Screwball" Stunts Staged On Gridiron

Fifth Down Most Publicized Incident of Season.

By BILL BONI.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—This was a fine football season for oddities, with the most publicized of all the Cornell "fifth down" that resulted in the Ithacans conceding Dartmouth a 3-0 victory in a game Cornell apparently had won by 7-3.

* * *

But the No. 1 screwball incident of the year, the prize plum culled from an annual Associated Press survey, came in the game between Hanover College or Indiana and Centre.

The Hanover quarterback got the ball from center, spun and fed it to what he thought was his fullback—only to find he'd given it to Jack Keeley of Centre, who was very much surprised but didn't let that stop him from going 25 yards to a touchdown.

There was the Southern Methodist-Baylor game, in which S. M. U. was leading, 7-2, with 20 seconds to go and the ball on its 30-yard line, fourth down.

Coach Matty Bell sent in Cliff Hagerman to take an intentional safety, and almost had heart failure before Hagerman wove his way backwards 30 yards into the end zone.

Florida got one of the year's finest fluke touchdowns against Tampa. Forest Fergusan, 'gator end, caught a long pass on the Tampa 15 and promptly started to toss a lateral. Suddenly realizing there was no receiver handy, he changed his mind.

But it was too late, the ball already was out of his hands. A Tampa man came rushing in, knocked the ball into the end zone—and Florida Guard Bob Sauers recovered it there for a score.

Coach Jimmy Phelan, of Washington introduced a new wrinkle on receiving punts this fall. His safety men would signal for a fair catch, then take the ball on the bounce, which meant they could run with it.

* * *

It caught opposing ends off guard, and worked for good gains against Oregon State, California and U. C. L. A. . . . Utah State missed winning touchdowns against Brigham Young and Colorado State by a total of 11 inches, while four yards — two each against Nebraska and Duke — cost Pitt its first losing season since 1912.

Gillon Voted 'Outstanding' Player on A-P Combine

star, and Bob Lonis, fighting fullback from Columbus North. That backfield has everything, each man being a triple-threat star and possessing plenty of speed.

Horace Gillom of Massillon, the huge Negro All-Ohio end of a year ago, was voted the outstanding player in the state, a wing berth on the first team, and the captaincy of the honorary squad, many coaches and newspapermen designating him as "the greatest high school player in Ohio history."

Opposite Gillom was placed Herbert Snider of Toledo Waite, rated one of the finest defensive ends and pass catchers in Toledo annals.

Huge Lowell Bradford, backbone of Orrville's unbeaten-untied team, thrust his 240 pounds into one tackle position, with the other went to Cleveland Cathedral Latin's Joe Fougerousse, a six-foot three-inch 190-pounder.

Caldwell, six-foot two-inch 230-pounder, was touted by his coach, "Jim" MacDonald, former Ohio State backfield star, as "a guy who is going to make some college a whale of a player. He just doesn't make mistakes, and he's plenty fast."

The All-Ohio squad was selected from nominations submitted by about 50 newspapermen, some 200 coaches from leading teams, and a host of fans.

With the state boasting one of the finest crops of backfield talent in a long, long time, many top-notch stars failed to make the first team and had to be content with runner-up berths.

Included in that class were such luminaries as Colby of Xenia O. S. & S. O. home, the state's scoring leader; Zubel of Columbus St. Charles, another touchdown-toter, and Kingham, another of Massillon's "finest."

So close were the performances of many of the stars that at times the scholastic ratings of the players were called into action to determine who should get the call.

All the first stringers are seniors, and all are high-grade students. And they're going to make some college coaches very, very happy in 1942.

REDS ARE FAVORITES TO COP NATIONAL PENNANT

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The world champion Cincinnati Reds are the early winter-book favorites of Broadway Betting Commissioner Jack Doyle to repeat their National league pennant conquest.

Doyle wasn't fixing any odds yet but said if he were, the Reds would be the shortest bet despite recent strengthening through trades by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Giants Speed Up Trading

New York Spends $50,000 To Buy Pitcher Bowman From Cardinals.

By ROMMEY WHEELER

ATLANTA — (AP) — Don't think Larry MacPhail's Flatbush Frolics are going unnoticed in Manhattan.

Brooklyn's president caught the spotlight here at the 39th annual minor league convention when he opened his Dodger moneybags for player talent. But today it was the New York Giants' turn to rattle the blue chips.

In a sudden move last night, they dropped an estimated $50,000 in the bucket to buy Pitcher Bob Bowman from the St. Louis Cardinals—and Giant officials hinted Manager Bill Terry was down to the shirtsleeve stage on a couple of other sizable deals.

While Terry remained inaccessible in his Down (Ansley) hotel room, lobby speculation was pegged on two possibilities:

1. That the Giants would seek to send Catcher Harry Danning to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Outfielder Hank Leiber and a pitcher—possibly Claude Passeau.

2. That the Giants would swap Infielder Nick Witek for Cincinnati's fastball pitcher, Whitey Moore.

There was no indication that either deal would materialize, and some sources predicted Terry would take no final action until the major league conclave in Chicago next week.

The Giants completed two deals early today with minor league clubs. One sends Pitcher Harold (Hy) Vandenberg to Rochester of the International league in what may have been an outgrowth of New York's trading with the Cardinals.

In the other deal, the Giants sent both Outfielder John Dickshot and Pitcher Roy Joiner from their Jersey City farm to Hollywood of the Pacific coast league for an option on Joe Hoover, a shortstop, who will remain at Hollywood during the 1941 season.

The Chicago Cubs were reported peddling First Baseman Zeke Bonura, who hit a disappointing .264 last season in 49 games—but with no takers. The Cubs also were mentioned as interested in Outfielder Harry Craft of the Cincinnati Reds, if the latter would talk business.

Billy Myer was renamed to manage the Kansas City club of the American association.

* * *

Last night the convention heard Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis in one of his infrequent addresses. Landis refrained from talk of business, charging baseball men only with the responsibility of preserving the "respectability and integrity" of the game during the trying period of war.

THEATERS

Bette Davis Film.

"The Letter," slated to be one of the outstanding pictures of the year, opens at the Ohio Saturday, starring Bette Davis. She returns to the screen as the wife of a British rubber planter isolated in the small white colony in the Orient. Miss Davis is seen against a sultry background whose undercurrents of passion and cruelty provide tension and excitement for this strange drama. Herbert Marshall is cast opposite Miss Davis.

Hollywood Night Life.

"A Night at Earl Carroll's" blends lovely ladies, spectacular dance numbers, variety acts and hit tunes with comedy and melodrama in a story about Hollywood night life and the efforts of a racketeer gang to crush a crusading reform mayor and his friend, Earl Carroll, who plays himself. Rose Hobart, Ken Murray and Lillian Cornell have the leads in the film. Second feature is "Lone Wolf," with Warren Williams and Frances Robinson in the lead roles. At the Madison.

Morgan In Dual Role.

Dennis Morgan plays the dual role of John Keith and Sergeant Conniston in the film "River's End," at the Ritz through Saturday. His French-Canadian assistant is portrayed by the character-actor, George Tobias. He is teamed with Steffi Duna and they give much comedy to the play as two newlyweds who start their honeymoon in a canoe.

Pioneer Days.

The old days of the pioneer southwest are recaptured in "Covered Wagon Days," which is playing at the Park. The three mesquiteers, starring trio of the sagebrush, again add to their laurels as cowboy headliners. Bob Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo take part in the story of governmental intervention when silver smuggling over the Mexican border gets uncontrollable. Co-feature is "Up In the Air," which stars Frankie Darro.

English Background.

Robert Montgomery plays the role of Silky Kilmount, Chicago gangster, who inherits the title and estates of Lord Gorley, his black sheep father's brother, in the picture "The Earl of Chicago," playing at the Majestic. He goes to England with Doc Ramsey, Edward Arnold, his lawyer and pal, and trusts him, only to be double-crossed. Second attraction is "Riders of Black Mountain," with Tim McCoy in the lead.

COUNTY RELIEF COSTING MORE THAN RECEIPTS

'Looks Bad For So Early In Season,' Commissioner Says; Hints at Action.

Richland county spent more for poor relief last month than the county received in relief funds, boosting the relief deficit to $226, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's monthly financial report showed today.

"That looks bad for this early in the season; something has to be done about reducing the reman of the board of county conlief costs," C. L. Mitchell, chairmissioners, said after examining the report. He did not say, however, what steps would be taken to cut the expense.

"We can't understand how the relief costs stay up when the clients get so much help from the surplus commodities division," he added.

Tons of food supplies are distributed monthly to families on relief in addition to the food and fuel they receive from the county and state.

The county last month spent $4 635 on relief and received $4,-603, the auditor's report showed. The county had a relief deficit of nearly $200 at the beginning of November.

There was a balance of $20,226 in the county general fund on Dec. 1 as compared to $16,853 a month ago. General fund receipts last month totaled $30 927 and the county spent $27,550.

FLOOD BARRIER SEEN BLOTTING HISTORIC AREA

Cornplanter Indian Clan In Pennsylvania Fears Ouster From Ancestral Lands.

(By United Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Pennsylvania's last remaining Indians, descendants of Chief Cornplanter, who gave the state its "chimney corner" outlet on Lake Erie, may be forced from the ancestral lands deeded them in perpetuity by a grateful legislature.

When and if the proposed Kinzua dam, part of the Allegheny river flood control program, is erected, backwater will inundate the homes and ancient burial grounds which the Cornplanters have more than once refused to vacate. A tourist-minded administration fears if the Indians do leave, they will cross the nearby New York state line and live with their fellows of the Six Nations near Salamanca.

In an effort to smooth over the situation, Gov. Arthur H. James made a trip to the reservation near Warren, Pa., and was inducted into the brotherhood of Cornplanter's descendants. He was the first of a long line of governors to accept the Indians' invitation and one of the few white men ever inducted into the old chief's clan.

Lands Are Isolated.

A group, actively working to keep the Indians within the commonwealth, points out three tracts were deeded Cornplanter's descendants—one, that on which they now live, a narrow, cramped site squeezed between the turbulent Allegheny, which floods them out once a year anyway, and an impassible bluff. Few Pennsylvanians know the Indians exist, even fewer could get into the reservation through the wilderness, if they tried.

The other two tracts are in nearby Venango county. Never lived on by the Indians, they were used as hunting and fishing grounds until the Civil war, when oil promoters talked them into giving up their rights "for the good of the union." The Indians were prevented from selling their lands by the deed. Since they relinquished them, the tracts have been made part of the Allegheny National Forest, and Federal government permission has been obtained for the Cornplanters to live there.

White friends of the Indians argue that in the Venango county sites, they could use their ancient skills and handicrafts to good advantage in locations where tourists will be able to penetrate. At present, they point out, only about 60 of the 500-odd descendants of the chieftain are able to sustain themselves on the reservation by skimpy agriculture, hunting and fishing. The rest are forced to become circus attractions, sideshow men or medicine barkers.

In many ways the Indians lead a primeval life. Squaws still do much of the work while the braves who live on the reservation hunt and fish, exempt from the state's rigid game laws. Citizens of the state, they pay no taxes, and debts may not legally be collected from them against their will.

Education has penetrated the reservation. About 16 children attend a state-supported school and are taught by a white woman. All are Christians and attend services at a small chapel administered by an Indian missionary who visits them each week.

New Police Methods Can Dig Out Clues From 'Clean' Jobs

NEW YORK—(AP)—Benny the Bum snuffed out his butt, gave the joint a last gander, slung the swag over his shoulder and crawled through the window with a cherubic smile of satisfaction.

It was a good clean job, that's what it was. No flatfoot could prove nothin'. That's because Benny wore gloves. See?

But a flatfoot did pin the job on Benny. When he laid out the evidence, it was so conclusive that Benny could only shake his head sadly and admit he'd better cop a plea.

"Police methods for today and tomorrow," a police primer written by George Callan, commanding officer of the Newark, (N. J.) police academy, and Richard Stephenson of the U. S. Treasury department lists thousands of possible clues left by Benny.

The book, available only to law enforcement officers, is a simple but exhaustive account of what police should know. It adapts to everyday problems the information gathered in years of study of police technique here and abroad.

In Benny's case, the evidence was based largely upon that conscious or unconscious way of doing things that identifies a job with the one who has done it.

Individualism in the criminal's work, according to Callan and Stephenson, is more pronounced than in that of artists. If criminals were doctors, they would embroider instead of stitch, and usually the embroidery would take the shape of their initials, the author says.

Of all known burglars, few sat down for a smoke after doing the job; only Benny was known to smoke El Hempos; marks on the matchpack (advertising Benny's favorite confectionary store) indicated the burglar was left-handed, Benny was.

Benny specialized only in small silver objects; and many large ones had not been taken. Benny usually lowered the window about halfway in leaving. He always worked just before dawn. He carried a size 47x jimmy, used a penknife to open drawers and favored houses where access was by drainpipe.

The cops knew Benny had done the job in question, because he always did his jobs that way. When they caught him with the goods he admitted to all other jobs bearing earmarks of his handiwork. It is the same with all other brands of criminal.

SCAN REASONS FOR BADOGLIO OUSTER MOVE

Troublesome Sign For Italy Seen In Latest Change of General Staff.

By JOHN EVANS
(AP Chief of Foreign Service)

Italy's sudden retirement of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, known as her best soldier, looks like a troublesome sign.

Defeats in the Greek campaign may be the immediate reason for Mussolini to change his chief of the general staff, but soldiers who know the two men and the country will read more than that into it.

Badoglio, first of all, has stood head and shoulders above all military men in Italy. His reputation and his works have been such that collapse of the Italian army in Albania need not discredit him. He would be the best man to repair the damage.

The Italian marshal who directed land, sea and air operations, never was an ardent Fascist. He joined the party only after his strikingly quick conquest of Ethiopia in 1935-1936.

Since the 1914-1918 war Badoglio has been rated Italy's best strategist and his civic courage equalled his military prowess.

When Marshal Emilio De Bono slowed down in his Ethiopian campaign, Mussolini sent for Badoglio. At that time there was a current of anti-Fascist and some discontent with the war. Il Duce was applauded widely then and later for his willingness to honor and trust Badoglio whose refusal to label himself a Fascist hampered the party movement.

Badoglio, it was known, took command in Ethiopia only when Mussolini gave him an absolutely free hand, with the king's full approval and with the understanding that the Black Shirt Fascist soldier should be part of the regular army with no favoritism because they were party members. After the Italian victory, Badoglio and Mussolini knew each other better, each trusted the other and the marshal joined the Fascist party as his contribution to Italian harmony.

Badoglio's withdrawal at this crucial time, therefore, appears to be a break between him and Mussolini, a sign of dissatisfaction with Italy's part in the war. It may mean that Marshal Badoglio pulled out because he is discontented and wishes to have nothing more to do with the present war against his old English allies on the side of Germany, against which he fought.

In the Italian mind, as elsewhere, Badoglio's removal from control hardly can do less than diminish confidence. It is true that Italian confidence in the army has been shaken by the Greek triumphs, even if they be but temporary, yet the Italian has an explanation for that.

Italy didn't expect the Greeks to fight and they didn't expect England to get into action in Greece in any big way. They counted on mere occupation of certain disputed territory, with only perfunctory if any resistance. Therefore, they blame the government and the army only for a mistake in political judgment and laxness in military preparation.

AIR TRAVEL

ASHLAND — At a time when Ashland is more or less air transportation conscious the Lions club listened and watched with great interest Thursday to an illustrated lecture on "Air Transportation." H. F. EAGLES STAGE CELEBRATION IN NEW HOME

Shelby Aerie Completes Plan For Dedication Ceremony To Be Held Sunday.

SHELBY—Another large crowd attended the second program Thursday night celebrating the completion of the newly decorated Eagle lodge rooms this week.

Guests from aeries in District No. 19 were present for the regular business session of the Shelby lodge conducted by W. L. Morton, president. A fish fry followed the business program.

Special speaker for the meeting was William P. Wetherald of Zanesville, deputy grand worthy president of Eagle lodge and a former mayor of that city.

Plans were completed last night for the dedication program to be held for the rooms Sunday.

One of the largest number of candidates ever initiated by the lodge will be taken into membership at that meeting. Special music will be played by the Galion Eagle band directed by Harrie Lee Bland of Galion.

Taking part in the ceremonies will be the Shelby Eagle drill team headed by Capt. John Harley.

The regular weekly bingo party will be held tonight at the hall. Members of the district will again be guests at a family party and dance Saturday night in the hall.

DECLAMATION

Crawford Speakers Arrange Prince of Peace Contest.

BUCYRUS — Winners of community Prince of Peace contests in Crawford county will deliver their orations in the contest to select the Crawford county winner in Sulphur Springs Reformed church Sunday night.

Judges have not yet been selected. Rev. George A. Hickson, chairman of the contest, announced.

Rev. J. H. Patterson of Mt. Zion will preside and the Rev. Frank Zartman of the host church will conduct the devotionals.

EDUCATOR DIES

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—Msgr. Francis J. Macelwane, 50, president of DeSales college since 1936, died of a heart attack last night. Monsignor Macelwane had been active in affairs of the Toledo diocese since his ordination in 1915.

ELECT HERROLD SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT FOR 34TH YEAR

Will G. Herrold, 37 Lexington avenue, added another notch to his already record-breaking service at South Main Street Evangelical church when he was re-elected superintendent of the Sunday school last night for the 34th consecutive year.

It is believed that this is a record at least for Richland county. The annual church congregational meeting was held last night at the church with several officers and three trustees elected.

Herrold came to Mansfield in 1905 from Akron and at that time the Sunday school met in the Y. M. C. A. building with an attendance ranging from seven to 16 on Sundays. When he was first elected superintendent in 1906 the average Sunday school attendance was about 22. Its present enrollment is 680 with an average attendance of 407. The present church was dedicated Dec. 10, 1905 and the attendance that day was 72.

Associate superintendents elected last night were Everett K. Tingley and C. F. Wolf, the latter being elected for the 20th year. Dean Robinson was named secretary and Charles L. Britton, treasurer. The other officers will be elected Monday, Dec. 9 at the regular meeting of the Workers council at the Herrold home.

Louis Bletz, F. O. Haldeman, Howard Moritz and J. A. Kochheiser were elected class leaders for one year terms, while Ray Loughman, O. C. Witmer and R. C. Tingley were elected church trustees for three-year terms.

Although the name "marihuana" commonly is applied to one certain type of plant, in reality it is an old Carib Indian name for all kinds of fiber plants.

DEATH CLAIMS A. W. UNDERWOOD

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at the Heyl funeral home. Interment will be in Sullivan cemetery.

HOPES DIM FOR YULE TRIP HOME FOR GUARDSMEN

Few Mansfielders To Return Despite Furlough; Small Pay Prevents It.

Few Mansfield guardsmen in training at Camp Shelby will come home for Christmas despite the 11-day furlough granted them, according to word received from the camp.

The reason is that the $21 dollar a month salary each enlisted man receives doesn't permit extended travel, and if boys come home it will have to be on savings or through financial aid from their parents.

Capt. R. J. Nichols, formerly commander of Battery D of Mansfield and now with battalion staff, wrote that only a few of the men he had contacted were planning to come to Ohio for Christmas. A number of the officers with the battery took their families with them. Mrs. Nichols and her four children expect to leave here shortly before the holidays to take up a residence near Camp Shelby for the duration of Capt. Nichols' training period.

About 80 per cent of the Ohio National Guard will be eligible to come home for the holiday, but it's the guardhouse for those who stay to celebrate New Year Eve, it was announced at the camp today.

The furlough starts at noon Dec. 21 and ends at 5 a. m. Jan. 2, but it takes more than 30 hours to make the trip by rail, so that furloughed men couldn't possibly be here to see the old year out. There is a penalty of three days of hard labor for each day A. W. O. L.

It was expected that the boys would be paid what they have earned up to Dec. 21, which will be $13 for enlisted men. Reduced railroad fares for soldiers are from $15 to $20 to Ohio towns and back.

Four Mansfielders Bag Deer Limit In Two Days' Hunting

Four Mansfield hunters were back home today, all a little weary but all happy. They returned last night from western Pennsylvania with four deer.

Those who made the trip into the mountains of Cameron county near Emporium on the opening day of the season Monday were Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Ben F. Owen, R. G. Gardner and Gene Buhrman.

Hiking through a two-foot snow the party bagged their limit during the first two days. Owen, chief clerk at the Ohio state reformatory, brought down a five-point buck before noon the first day. Judge Kalbfleisch shot a three-point buck and Gardner and Buhrman, each bagged does. All the animals were large, ranging in weight from 150 to 175 pounds.

LABOR BURDENS FARMING AREAS

Asserts Large Supply Keeps Wages Low; Scarcity of Farms Also Detriment.

(By United Press)

AMES Ia.—The presence of a larger corn-belt labor supply than is needed is "at the root" of a number of serious social problems, Ray E. Wakely, Iowa State college sociologist, has reported.

"In the corn belt, from one-third to one-half of the people born on farms are not needed to maintain an adequate working force in agriculture," he said.

"In recent years, agriculture has had to absorb a large part of this excess. A substantial improvement in general business activity will have to occur to siphon off the unneeded workers now backed up on farms."

Wakely explained the shift toward hired labor has increased the proportion of agricultural workers dependent on seasonal employment and in need of public assistance at other times.

He said the labor supply keeps wages low and the scarcity of farms to rent increases the "pressure" still more.

"If American agriculture should be completely cut off from Europe as the result of German domination of that continent, the excess supply of labor on American farms would become more burdensome," he said.

"On the other hand, the rapid increase in armament production during the next few years undoubtedly will make many non-agricultural jobs available. In addition, many of the farm laborers will be taken into the armed forces."

'HAPPINESS FINDER' BECOMES SAD BEHIND JAIL CELL BARS

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Appleton Beemster, erstwhile "Happiness Finder" for lonely middle-aged women, found his own happiness somewhat cramped today by cell bars.

Edward F. Corll, 24, alias Beemster, pleaded guilty in federal court to an indictment for using the mails to defraud. Judge Robert N. Wilkin made him a guest of the government until sentence is pronounced Tuesday.

Corll was doing a flourishing business when he ran afoul of the investigation a year ago. He had advertised in various parts of the country that he, Appleton Beemster, might find jobs for middle-aged women as traveling companions for wealthy patrons of his "ancestral estate, Windsor Manor."

It became evident that there are plenty of lonely middle-aged women, for answers streamed through the mails.

Beemster's letters then described himself as a polished gentleman, not too old and not too young, who was interested in seeing—for a small fee—that the rest of humanity find happiness.

He espoused also the joys of married life and suggested that his middle-aged correspondents might be happier with husbands.

His literature described his "Ancestral Estate, Windsor Manor," at Canfield, a rural suburb of Youngstown. A number of happiness hunters visited the village of some 1,000 population but they could find no one who knew of Beemster or Windsor Manor.

On Dec. 2, 1939 Corll appeared at the Youngstown better business bureau. He said Appleton Beemster and Windsor Manor would be no more and that he was giving up the whole business.

There were letters in the mails, however. The grand jury said that Beemster advertised jobs which did not exist and took fees for services he did not render and that this was fraud via mail. Corll pleaded guilty to all three counts of the indictment each of which carries a possible maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment.

Then he was taken to county jail. He wasn't happy.
